PCB MAY NOT PLAY ICC EVENTS IN INDIA TILL 2031

After two days of discussions, Pakistan Cricket Board chief Mohsin Naqvi told a few reporters in Dubai that they would take a decision in the best interest of cricket. Devi Awards celebrates woman power, pays tribute to 12 trailblazers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

TWELVE trailblazing women – from a serial entrepreneur to a handloom revivalist to an Olympian to an inclusive activist -- who have made an impact and transcended boundaries, were bestowed with the prestigious Devi Awards by The New Indian Express, at the 29th edition of the awards ceremony here on Saturday evening.

After nine years, the Devi Awards event was back in Bengaluru to celebrate the accomplishments of the distinguished women at a gala event graced by the glitterati. The awardees were two-time Olympian Anju Bobby George; theatre exponent Arundhati Nag who founded the popular Rangashankara; Nimhans Director Dr Pratima Murthy; serial entrepreneur Meena Ganesh; author Samhita Arni; founder of Mitti Cafe Alina Alam; educationist Kavita Gupta Sabharwal; handloom revivalist Pavithra Muddaya; founding director of Science Gallery Bengaluru Jahnavi Phalkey; classical dancer Nirupama Rajendra; researcher Dr Vatsala Thirumalai and designer Sonali Sattar, who started Grasshopper.

The prestigious Devi Awards were instituted in New Delhi in December 2014, and has since paid tribute to about 300 women achievers from across the country in the preceding 28 editions.

Co-founder and former CEO and MD of IT giant Infosys SD Shibulal, who presented the awards, was all praise for The New Indian Express Group. "I am particularly happy to share this stage with The New Indian Express Group, an organisation that has consistently amplified the voices of trailblazing women across India," he remarked. "Devi Awards are a testament to the unwavering commitment to spotlight extraordinary women who exemplify dynamism and innovation. By recognising and celebrating women's contributions through platforms like the Devi Awards, we are not just honouring their work but also reinforcing the belief that the future belongs to those who dare to lead, innovate, and inspire. Throughout history and across the globe, women have demonstrated an exemplary ability to lead in ways that transform not only enterprises but entire economies and societies..."

He pointed out that studies have ascertained the truth that companies with greater gender diversity outperform their peers across key verticals such as innovation, productivity and profitability. "In my own journey, I first witnessed a unique and holistic approach to leadership in my mother who began working at the age of 20," he recalled. Apart from his mother, an employee with the excise department, Shibulal holds his wife Kumari and daughter Shruti as role models who have struck a balance with professional and personal lives... "each of whom seems to so intuitively carry the truly inspiring quality of combining innovation and leadership with empathy". P2

FENGAL MAKES LANDFALL; RAIN, WIND SWEEP TN

Cyclone touches land at 6.30 pm near Pondy, Rainfall likely in 4 districts in TN today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

THE cyclonic storm 'Fengal' made landfall between Karaikal and Mahabalipuram close to Puducherry on Saturday night, bringing very heavy rain to districts along the north Tamil Nadu coast, including Chennai.

Chennai received over 18cm of rainfall in 24 hours from Friday evening to 5.30 pm on Saturday. The Regional Meteorological Centre (RMC) said the spiral bands associated with the cyclone had touched land at 6.30 pm and would cross the coast over the next 3 to 4 hours, with a wind speed of 70-80kmph gusting up to 90kmph. The storm was continuously monitored by the doppler weather radar at Chennai.

S Balachandran, director, RMC, told reporters that it was a very dynamic cyclonic storm constantly changing moving speeds. "As per the latest ocean satellite data, the landfall process might take several hours for the eye of the storm to completely move inland."

Officials said all the important lake catchment areas in and around Chennai received good rains boosting the level of water in reservoirs. The rains were not threatening as they occurred in intermittent spells. The rainfall ranged from 10cm to 13cm in most of the weather stations.

In Chennai, the highest rainfall of 13.2cm was recorded by the automatic weather station at Jaya Engineering College, followed by Meenambakkam with 11.4cm and Nungambakkam with 10.4cm. Puducherry, where the landfall took place, recorded 10.4cm, while the Mailam station in Villupuram recorded 13.6cm. This data is from the 8.30 am to 5.30 pm window on Saturday and the weather by and large cleared up thereafter.

On Sunday, rainfall is expected over Villupuram, Kallakuruchi and Cuddalore districts and Puducherry, where a red alert has been issued.

Maharashtra govt swearing in on Dec 5

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

DAYS after the Mahayuti alliance retained power in Maharashtra, the first clarity on the new government came in the form of the date and venue of the swearing in ceremony. Apart from the NCP's participation in the government, all else was hazy.

Maharashtra BJP president Chandrashekhar Bawankule said the oath-taking ceremony will be held at Azad Maidan here in the presence of Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Thursday, December 5, at 5 pm.

While he was silent on the identity of next chief minister, BJP leader Devendra Fadnavis continued to be the front runner for the post. NCP head Ajit Pawar is likely to take his oath as well as deputy chief minister but there was no clarity about caretaker Chief Minister Eknath Shinde.

Sources said a meeting of the BJP legislative party would be held on December 2 or 3 to choose its leader, who would go on to be the new CM.

Earlier in the day, Union minister of State for Civil Aviation Muralidhar Mohal's name was in circulation as a dark horse in the race of CM. He represents Pune in the Lok Sabha, is a Maratha, and is close to the top leadership of the BJP. The speculation was he could helm the government while Fadnavis may be elevated as BJP's national president.

But Mohal quickly tamped down the speculation saying he is not at all in the CM race.

Maha row: EC-Cong meeting on Tuesday

MUKESH RANJAN @New Delhi

A day after the Congress submitted a memorandum to the Election Commission of India (ECI) charging that the Maharashtra assembly election process was suspect, the poll body on Saturday invited a delegation of the party for a meeting next Tuesday at 5 pm to discuss its concerns.

However, in its pushback, the ECI reiterated that polling through the electronic voting machines was completely transparent, adding candidates and their agents of all parties were involved at every stage of the process. The panel said it will review all legitimate concerns and provide a written response after hearing the party's delegation at the December 3 meet.

Maharashtra Congress chief Nana Patole, too, wrote to the ECI seeking to know how voter turnout increased by 7.83% after the official polling time had ended. His allegations pertained to "arbitrary deletion of voters and subsequent addition of over 10,000 voters in each constituency from the final voter lists" and the inexplicable increase in voting percentage between 5 pm and the final figures at 11.30 pm on polling day.

Rebutting the allegation on addition and deletion of voters in Maharashtra, the ECI said "electoral rolls are always prepared and finalized with close involvement of all political parties". The panel, however, said it would get the issues raised by the Congress examined.

As for questions swirling around the voter turnout data, the ECI asserted that there is no discrepancy, as the data is available with all candidates polling station-wise and is verifiable.

DRUGS CONTROLLER SUSPENDED OVER DEATHS OF POSTPARTUM WOMEN IN BALLARI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

FOLLOWING the deaths of four postpartum women at the Ballari District Hospital recently, Chief Minister Siddaramaiah announced the suspension of Drugs Controller Dr Umesh S for dereliction of duty, and the prosecution of a West Bengal-based pharmaceutical firm, whose 'substandard' Ringer's lactate is suspected to have caused the deaths of the women.

The decision comes after a high-level meeting was convened to address the issue, which raised serious concerns over the safety of medical supplies in the state. The CM said the West Bengal-based company responsible for supplying the Ringer's lactate solution used at the hospital has been blacklisted, and a criminal case has been filed against it.

The deaths occurred between November 11 and 17, with the women suffering from complications like multiple organ failure, hemodialysis, and acute kidney injury. While three other patients who faced similar complications are recovering, the tragic incident has prompted immediate investigation.

In response to the deaths, the state government also announced compensation of Rs 2 lakh to the families of the deceased. P5

DEVIS EXPLORE POWER OF THEIR SUPERPOWERS

Jahnavi Phalkey, founding director, Science Gallery Bengaluru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

"IF I have a superpower, I would ask the rich to set up theatres like Rangashankara in the small towns of India," said Arundhati Nag, theatre exponent and founder of Rangashankara -- Bengaluru's cherished theatre space which recently completed its 20th anniversary.

She was in conversation with Kaveree Bamzai, noted author and journalist, at the Roundtable with the Devis -- 'Leading Change: What's the Superpower?' held as part of the 29th edition of the Devi Awards instituted by The New Indian Express, on Saturday.

Stating that theatres need not always have to originate from Tier-1 cities like New Delhi, Mumbai and Bengaluru, Arundhati said it's time theatres are introduced in 'B' and 'C' category cities.

Further, she said when theatres like Rangashankara are set up in small towns, it will make a huge difference, and added that it was her dream. Educationist, founder and managing trustee of Neev Schools Kavita Gupta Sabharwal, who is batting for education for children said, "We deal with around 15,000 children at our school, while also working with government and orphanage schools. Many children are deprived of a proper education."

Earlier, at the roundtable, Kavita said while India is changing, education has failed to keep up. "If there is a new tryst with the destiny India has to make, it has to be education. We have to change the definition of what 'excellence in education' means, "she said, adding that education must redefine its vision. Further into the roundtable, author Samhita Arni said if she had a superpower, she would create an economy and make arts productive and generate more revenue. "There are many young fiction writers who do not get ample opportunities like the ones we have. I wish to make arts more productive, by creating infrastructure for publishing, marketing, and changing the revenue model, thus providing better income to arts professionals," Samhita said. Jahnavi Phalkey, a science and technology historian, batted for the setting up of public libraries and parks and museum-like galleries, which are located at a 15-minute distance from anywhere. Jahnavi said that because of the fear of failure, the ability to think differently is severely compromised. "Failures are everywhere, but nowhere to be seen. Even when historians write about various aspects of the history of science, failures are seldom narrated," she added, and reminded that it takes multiple rockets, before the actual rocket is launched. "It is important to bring such things to the public," she said. The historian stressed on the need to build a connection with science to become informed and capable citizens.

'Glass ceiling will permanently shatter when we shift mindsets'

"THIS particular quality -- rare and essential – is shared by each of the women we are recognising here today. It is a quality rooted in knowing that success is not solitary, it is not personal, it cannot be measured by a single metric, and it does not exist in isolation," he elaborated. "Women in leadership approach their own success as the success of those around them -- their families, communities, and countries. When women succeed, they make sure to take the rest of us with them. We cannot acknowledge the outstanding achievements of the women here today without recognising that they have done so despite a largely unequal playing field. The barriers that continue to curb opportunities and growth of women need to be broken. And much work remains to be done.

"While partly accomplished by corporate policies, legislation and external factors, the glass ceiling will most thoroughly and permanently shatter when we begin to shift mindsets. A mindset that compels society to educate, encourage and enable women to lead boldly and unapologetically," he said. He hoped that the women honoured with Devi Awards pull others up along with them, building a stronger, more resilient India. When women thrive, societies flourish, he added.

"As a strong believer in women empowerment, I heartily congratulate the 12 achievers and wish them the best to continue their relentless work, which will inspire other women," remarked Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah in his message.

The event also featured an engaging roundtable with Devis titled 'Leading Change: What's the Superpower?' Arundhati Nag, Kavita Gupta Sabharwal, Samhita Arni and Jahnavi Phalkey were part of the engaging conversation on varied issues.

TNIE CMD Manoj Kumar Sonthalia, Editorial Director of The New Indian Express Prabhu Chawla, Group CEO Lakshmi Menon and Editor Santwana Bhattacharya were present. Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka, BJP MP Lehar Singh Siroya, Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Surya and City Police Commissioner B Dayananda were among the audience.

Noted author Kaveree Bamzai moderated the session, including the candid interaction with the awardees.

A dazzling evening to remember for Devis and their families

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

IT WAS AN EVENING to cherish for the Devi award winners, their friends and families who came down to watch their loved ones being honoured with the coveted award instituted by The New Indian Express on Saturday. There were tears, cheers, applause, photo and video shoots of the big moment, as the winners accepted their awards and spoke a few words before the jam-packed audience around.

It turned out to be an inspirational evening for most of the men and women in the crowd when the achievements of each 'Devi' and her hardship on their route to success, were narrated and showcased on a giant screen. There were many emotional faces around when inclusive activist Alina Alam, founder and CEO of Mitti Cafe, came on stage with her toddler, husband and a group of persons with disabilities who have a successful career. She conveyed her message of inclusiveness rather well, and also shared her moment of pride.

Many were lost in wonder when classical dancer Nirupama Rajendra, an awardee was asked to perform a small dance to depict the spirit of 'Devi', after collecting her award. Her dynamic moves, packed with emotion, was well applauded.

"I never knew Anju Bobby George was an Olympian. Got to know it just today when she was awarded. I always knew she was an outstanding athlete," said a person in the audience.

Surprisingly, for a such packed crowd, there was pin-drop silence when the awardees and their achievements were introduced and a round table discussion held with a few of them. The choice of the winners, ranging from an athlete to a handloom revivalist, perhaps caught the interest of many.

The short and sweet evening concluded with delicious dinner for the invitees, truly making it a Saturday family outing.

KSRTC explores AC bus routes within 100 km of city

AKNISREE KARTHIK @ Bengaluru

With demand mounting for the introduction of air-conditioned Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) buses to destinations that are around 100 km from Bengaluru, the bus corporation is taking up a feasibility study. At present, its AC buses only serve longer routes.

Speaking to TNIE, KSRTC MD Anbu Kumar said, "There are thousands of people from all walks of life who travel to and from the city for various purposes, each day. Students, techies, workers, and traders board our buses from places closer to Bengaluru, like Kolar, Tumakuru, Anekal, Ramanagara, Kanakapura, Channapatna, Mandya, Chikkaballapur, Hosur, and other places, which are within or around 100 km from the state capital. It is these people who form the major floating population in Bengaluru."

"We have AC buses on longer routes, such as Bengaluru to Chennai, Mangaluru, Belagavi, Goa, and others, but we do not have AC services to places that are within the 100-km range. The existing non-AC buses, including the Ashwamedha, are ordinary point-to-point buses, which are comfortable for both sitting and standing travel. However, there are requests from regular travellers, for AC buses that provide more comfort, charging ports, and other amenities," Kumar said.

"In the past three years, people have supported all our new launches – Ambari Utsav, Ashwamedha, Pallaki, and EV Power Plus (e-bus). We gauge the pulse of the people before launching anything new. Now, there is demand for AC buses to places within 100 km from Bengaluru. We will take up a feasibility study on the routes, frequency and demand," he mentioned.

"We need a mid-version of Ashwamedha," he said, adding that pricing tickets for this AC bus might be challenging, as people are ready to pay more for long-distance travel, since they travel occasionally. However, in this sort of regular travel, they have to pay extra, that too every day.

Since profit alone is not the intention, the fare will be worked out after the feasibility study, Kumar informed.

District Judge Rajeshwari N Hegde, of Davangere District and Sessions Court, held Mahadevappa guilty of murdering his wife AJ Shyla, in 2014, and sentenced him to life imprisonment and imposed a fine of Rs 1 lakh. Shyla was killed using an anaesthetic drug Sevoflurane, at her residence in Koratikere village of Channagiri taluk

ARREST INFO ENOUGH, GROUNDS OF ARREST NOT NECESSARY: HC

'Informing reason for arrest will open Pandora's box for litigation before courts'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court ruled that the verdicts of the Supreme Court, that grounds of arrest are to be informed to the accused, applies to the accused arrested under the Unlawful Activities (Prevention) Act (UAPA) and Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) and not for accused arrested under the Indian Penal Code and Karnataka Control of Organised Crimes Act, 2000 (KCOCA).

"There are close to 20,000 police stations in the country, arrests happen day in and day out. If grounds of arrest are to be informed, as held by the Apex Court in the cases of Pankaj Bansal, Prabir Purkayastha and Arvind Kejriwal in every arrest on any cognizable offence, it would undoubtedly open a Pandora's box of interpretation of what could be the grounds of arrest, and lead to huge litigation before the constitutional courts," said Justice M Nagaprasanna, dismissing the petition filed by John Moses D aka Madan Kumar, questioning his arrest by the CID.

Counsel of the petitioner contended that the arrest was illegal as the grounds of arrest were not made known to the petitioner, and is against the verdict of the apex court. However, the prosecution contended that intimation of arrest would be enough and not grounds for arrest, as per Section 50 of CrPC. Therefore, the petition be dismissed on the score that several cases are registered against the petitioner who has swindled many innocent investors, the prosecution argued.

The court noted that Section 50 CrPC would not mandate divulgence of grounds of arrest, except information of arrest to the accused, and hence it would not vitiate the arrest of the petitioner. However, Section 43-B of UAPA permits any officer arresting a person under this provision for an offence punishable under Section 43-A, as soon as may be, inform the person who is to be arrested on the grounds of such arrest. Likewise, Section 19 of PMLA which depicts the power to arrest mandates that the officer authorized by the central government as soon as possible, inform him of the grounds for such arrest. However, this does not apply to the arrests made under IPC and KCOCA, the court said.

Meanwhile, the court appreciated the assistance rendered by Additional State Public Prosecutor B N Jagadeesha in this case.

Paid parking at 3rd entrance of KSR rly stn after 6 yrs

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

SIX years after the launch of the third entry at KSR Bengaluru City railway station, the first 'Pay and Park' facility for the public was launched on Friday. Located just across the Kempegowda Interchange Metro station on the jam-packed Gubbi Thotadappa Road, the objective of the entry was to decongest the road and the main entrance of the KSR station. However, owing to poor patronage for this entry in the past, contractors did not come forward to bid for the space.

City-based Smartlens Parking Solutions Private Limited has been awarded the parking contract for a three-year period from November 29. The 697-sqm space can house 180 two-wheelers and 20 four-wheelers.

The KSR railway station launches the Pay and Park facility for the public at the third entrance of the railway station on Friday.

Senior Divisional Commercial Manager (SDCM), Bengaluru Railway Division, Krishna Chaitanya told TNIE, "This entry directly leads to platform one. Currently, the usage of the entry has picked up pace and approximately 10,000 passengers use it on a daily basis," he said. Further, he added, "With the launch of an escalator on platform one recently, public can now access all the ten platforms. Earlier, they had to rely only on foot over bridge to interchange between platforms."

Prior to the launch, the Railway Division and police put an end to the unauthorised parking of private buses and taxis in the spacious parking space, he added. When this reporter visited the spot in the past, it was often used as a playground by kids in the vicinity.

The contractor will pay Railways an annual fee of Rs 18.54 lakh during the contract period. "The daily average footfall at KSR station is around 2 lakh. The entry already has 10,000 people using it and is bound to shoot up after new amenities like paid parking and escalators," said SDCM.

Practical skills crucial to prep kids for climate change

RISHITA KHANNA @Bengaluru

WITH children today increasingly forced to face all seasons in the off-season, as the effects of climate change become more evident, experts are calling for a shift in education to better prepare children for future challenges.

Experts argue that education should not only focus on literacy or academic learning, but also teach children practical life skills that will help them navigate an increasingly unpredictable world. Essential skills like swimming, cooking, first aid, and money management are not just "nice-to-haves", but are critical for resilience and survival, they said.

Development educationist Prof Niranjanaradhya VP said a combination of cognitive skills and work-based education must be implemented in schools from an early age.

The Gandhian concept of education, which emphasises the development of the "head, hand, and heart," is at the heart of this shift. Niranjanaradhya mentioned that education should teach children to think critically, take action through hands-on work, and develop empathy. This approach encourages children to apply their knowledge in real-world situations, he added.

"The current education system relies heavily on rote learning and exam-based assessments, which often disconnect children from practical life skills. This system is superficial on cognitive learning, focusing more on memorisation than real-world application," Niranjanaradhya lamented.

Life skills like swimming, and cooking must be taught, to foster self-reliance and resourcefulness. Learning first aid can help children respond effectively in medical emergencies. While these skills are often seen as basic, they are crucial in building resilience.

As climate change leads to unpredictable weather patterns and economic instability, teaching children how to manage money becomes increasingly important.

Drone technician tries to end life over loss from movie

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A 25-year-old drone technician, who was working with the movie 'Cult', attempted suicide, following alleged threats and financial losses related to the movie's team. Cult stars Waqf Minister BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan's son, Zaid Khan, and is directed by Anil Kumar.

The drone technician has been identified as Santosh, a resident of Magadi Road. Police said Santosh tried to hang himself from a ceiling fan at his residence on Thursday. Family members noticed this and rushed him to a nearby hospital. After being alerted by hospital staff, police questioned Santosh and registered a NCR case, based on a complaint filed by his sister.

According to the police, Santosh had been working with the movie to capture drone shots, charging Rs 25,000 per day. During a shoot in Chitradurga, his drone collided with a wind turbine, resulting in significant financial loss.

One of the movie managers, Sunil, had reportedly assured Santosh that the team would cover for his loss and provide an official letter to that effect. However, when Santosh approached them for compensation, he was allegedly humiliated and threatened by the movie director and producer. Santosh's financial difficulties due to the drone crash, coupled with the alleged threats and humiliation, drove him towards the extreme step, police added.

Goods auto driver bludgeons man to death with metal bangle

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A 32-year-old man, identified as N Abhishek, lost his life after he was bludgeoned with a metal bangle by a goods auto driver and his accomplices in Byadarahalli police station limits.

Abhishek, who was a native of Hassan, and his brother N Avinash (30), a resident of Andrahalli Main Road, had married Nikitha and Nischitha, both sisters from Hirisave in Hassan district, respectively. Abhishek and Nikitha have a six-year-old son, while Avinash and Nischitha have a four-year-old daughter.

After the wedding, Abhishekh was staying at his wife's house, along with his mother-in-law, Manjula, while Avinash and Nischitha were staying on Andrahalli Main Road. The main accused, S Karthik (27), a goods auto driver, is Avinash's neighbour. Karthik was close to both Nikitha and Nischitha. This closeness had strained ties in both the brothers' families. After leaving her husband, Nikitha came with her mother from Hassan and stayed at her sister's house. Both Abhishek and Avinash were then staying alone.

Around 8 pm on Wednesday, Abhishek had gone to confront Karthik, and the latter, along with his accomplices, attacked him with a metal bangle, which Karthik was wearing on his wrist. Abhishek telephoned his brother for help. When Avinash came to his brother's aid, even he was attacked with the same 'weapon'.

"In his complaint, Avinash has stated that both Nikitha and Nischitha and their mother Manjula instigated Karthik to attack him and his brother. The three women also forced the brothers to fall at Karthik's feet and seek his pardon. Only after Avinash fell at Karthik's feet, did the perpetrators leave. Avinash later shifted Abhishek to Victoria Hospital, where he breathed his last in the wee hours of Saturday," an officer said.

Karthik, and another accused, NG Chethan Kumar (33) of Andrahalli, have been arrested. The police are looking for two more accused, and are trying to establish the role of the three women in the crime.

HC rejects pleas by accused in Amazon cheating case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru:

THE Karnataka High Court rejected the petition filed by two persons from West Bengal who were booked by the city police on a complaint filed by Amazon Logistic and Amazon Transportation Services Private Limited, for allegedly cheating customers with a novel idea.

"The case at hand is shrouded with seriously disputed questions of fact and any such seriously disputed questions of fact can be thrashed out only in a full-blown trial. This court would be loathe to interfere with such facts which require a full-blown trial," said Justice M Nagaprasanna, while rejecting the petition filed by Sourish Bose (39) and Deepanvita Ghosh (54), questioning the crime registered against them.

According to the complaint, the allegations arose during the period from January 12, 2016, to April 21, 2017, for 104 orders with a C-return option. Items which were defective when the customers received them would initiate C-return, and the items were collected at different addresses and the refund credited to a different person. This resulted in a loss of Rs 69.91 lakh to Amazon.

Based on the complaint, Hennur police after investigation filed a chargesheet against the petitioners for offences punishable under Section 420 read with 34 of the IPC. Hence, they moved the high court to question the proceedings.

Additional State Public Prosecutor BN Jagadeesha narrated before court that the modus operandi adopted by the petitioners is very interesting. Stating that since it is an online transaction and can be operated from anywhere, he succinctly explains the modus. Accused No.1 places an order to be delivered to Accused No.2 and one lady in eBay, a relative of Accused No.1 processes the order. The moment it is delivered, Accused No.2 initiates C-return.

While C-return is initiated, the product in the box is changed. C-return is taken back and routed through eBay. Therefore, what these petitioners gain is they have the original product with them and money for the product is also with them as the refund is received. This went on for a long time and Amazon noticed it after 104 transactions. If this cannot be a matter of trial, what else can be, he argued, while praying to court to dismiss the petition.

Digital crimes

The court noted that with the advent of the internet and its tremendous advancement, the world today is unipolar. Crimes and their commission have become ingenious, particularly in the digital age. There is a huge proliferation in cyber crimes and online frauds in particular, and are being developed at an alarming rate, leaving victims in their wake. The modus operandi in these new-age crimes has completely changed conventional acts of robbery and dacoity. Though they still exist, conventional crimes are overshadowed by digital crimes. The consequences of such crimes are beyond boundaries.

SILENCE SHOULD NOT BE MISTAKEN FOR WEAKNESS: VIJAYENDRA TO DETRACTORS

Says those expecting change in state BJP will be disappointed, brass taking note of all devpts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AS some leaders in the state unit of the BJP continue to openly speak against him, state party president BY Vijayendra on Saturday said his silence should not be mistaken as weakness and those expecting a change of guard in the party will be disappointed.

Speaking to media persons, the BJP leader said they are making honest efforts to take everyone along and the party Central leaders are satisfied with his efforts. Hitting out at his detractors within the party, Vijayendra said some leaders are talking as if being Yediyurappa's son itself is a crime and he would respond to them in the coming days.

Vijayendra said that he is not going to New Delhi to give a complaint asking the Central leaders to expel MLA Basangounda Patil Yatnal from the party. The Central leaders are taking note of all the developments, the media is reporting statements made by some leaders and they also get information in their own method, he said. "I do not think, this will go on for long," the BJP leader said. Vijayendra said that he met the party's Central leaders in Delhi and apprised them about the results of the bypolls to three Assembly seats in the state.

Vijayendra said that those who criticise him are under the illusion that they will become big leaders by doing so and the party workers want an end to such developments. The BJP leader said he brought all the developments to the notice of those who needed to be kept informed. "If my silence is considered as a weakness, that would be a mistake," he said.

Opposition to Yatnal surfaces in his home turf Vijayapura

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Vijayapura

UNDER fire from several BJP leaders for opposing the leadership of state party president BY Vijayendra and party strongman BS Yediyurappa, MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal faced criticisms from two prominent leaders of the party from his own district of Vijayapura. Suresh Biradar, BJP state working committee member, and Gopal Ghatkamble, party state SC Morcha general secretary, held a press conference to express their anguish against Yatnal, who is a former union minister. The duo demanded that the BJP high command expel Yatnal from the party.

Hitting out at Yatnal for taking out a separate protest against the Waqf land issue without the consent of Vijayendra, Biradar said that Yatnal is more vocal against the BJP than the Waqf issue. He said that all the actions of Yatnal are damaging the party and weakening the morale of the workers, rather than uniting the party to fight against the Congress. Demanding the Central leaders expel Yatnal, Biradar said that his presence in the party will create more rifts. "We had no issues if Yatnal organised the rally with the support and consent of the state president and the Central leaders. But he launched a separate protest. This is giving a clear message among the opposition that there is no unity in Karnataka BJP. Yatnal has become dangerous for the party," he charged. Ghatkamble said, "We are talking on behalf of hundreds of party workers who are upset with Yatnal and his team. We will protest strongly if that team enters Vijayapura."

Disability welfare funds not slashed, says Priyank

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kalaburagi

RDPR Minister Priyank Kharge, who is also Kalaburagi district in-charge minister, has denied the charges made by the opposition parties that the State Government has reduced 80% grant to the Department of Disabled and Senior Citizens and diverted it to implement the guarantee schemes.

Priyank said that grants to many departments, including the RDPR department, have been increased. He clarified that the grants for the department of Disabled and Senior Citizens have been given on the basis of the action plan submitted by it. Priyank challenged state BJP president BY Vijayendra to expel BJP leaders like Basanagouda Patil Yatnal and Muniratna. "Infighting has increased in the state BJP... there is BJP vs BJP in Karnataka. People are laughing at Yatnal and Muniratna who are giving statements against Vijayendra," he added.

On Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka criticising the government for registering a case against a seer of the Vokkaliga community for seeking the cancellation of voting rights of Muslims, Priyank asked the former to clarify whether the law of the land would apply to everybody or not.

Neta who can get Cong sizeable votes should be next KPCC chief: Satish

NAUSHAD BIJAPUR @ Belagavi

AMID reports of a possible appointment of new chief for the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC), PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi, a strong aspirant for the top post, has said the Congress would return to power in the state again in 2028 only if it names a leader who is capable of getting sizeable votes to the party.

While asserting that the Congress should have a full-time KPCC president to bolster it from the grassroots in the state, Satish said that at least three noted leaders are in the race for the top post. Satish said that discussions are on in the party to replace the KPCC president and the party high command will take a final call on it based on merit.

Stating that he was not having any clue as to who would be appointed as the new chief for the party in the state, Satish said he would get an idea about the probable candidates in the party only after he meets leaders in New Delhi after the winter session of the state legislature to be held in Belagavi in December.

He declined to speculate or issue a statement on the process of appointment and said the position of KPCC chief was regarded in the Congress as extremely important.

He said the role of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and Deputy CM DK Shivakumar in naming the next chief was pivotal besides the party high command. The party would sit with the two leaders and also discuss with other prominent party leaders before taking a final decision, he said.

To bolster the Congress in the state ahead of the 2028 Assembly polls, Satish said that the party should name a leader who would be able to help the party get a large chunk of votes. According to informed sources, Satish is most likely to be the next state Congress chief in wake of the crucial role he had played in the last Assembly elections and the recent bypoll wins.

Most of the top Congress leaders in Belagavi agree to the fact that Satish played a major role in the victory of party candidate in Haveri Yasir Ahmed Khan Pathan against BJP's Bharat Bommai. Satish was also instrumental in the victory of his daughter Priyanka Jarkiholi in the Lok Sabha elections from Chikkodi.

Nikhil: CM holding meet to send out message to Cong brass, retain post

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

JDS youth wing president Nikhil Kumaraswamy on Saturday said that Chief Minister Siddaramaiah is conducting the 'Swabhimani Samavesha' in Hassan on December 5 to strengthen his position as CM and retain his post.

"The CM is holding the meet for personal gain, bypassing his own party to strengthen his position. The rally is his show of strength aimed at gaining the attention of national leaders. In our view, this rally is not meant to send out any message to JDS or BJP, but to the Congress high command," Nikhil said.

Nikhil had tasted his straight third defeat in the recent Channapatna bypolls at the hands of Congress candidate CP Yogeeshwara.

On whether the Swabhimani Samavesha to be held in Hassan—the home turf of his grandfather and former PM HD Deve Gowda—will impact the JDS, Nikhil replied in the negative and said, "Anyone can hold any rally anywhere. Assembly elections in Karnataka are three-and-a-half years away. What is the purpose behind this samavesha?"

He further criticised the State Government stating that it is organising such events to cover up its failures. "People are questioning the achievements of this government. The administration is drowning in corruption and scandals. Even a Congress MLA recently wanted the State Government to drop some of the guarantees citing a lack of funds for constituencies. It has been just one-and-half years since the Congress came to power in the state... their own MLAs are expressing dissatisfaction," the JDS leader said.

Nikhil also took on the government over the release of funds to constituencies. "While Congress MLAs complain about lack of funds, imagine the plight of JDS and BJP leaders. Not a single rupee has been released," he added.

He also hit out at Yogeshwara saying, "The question is how long will he remain in the Congress? None of our MLAs are in a situation where they will follow him and join the Congress. Our MLAs are emotionally and personally connected beyond politics. They are in constant contact with me and discuss issues like funding for constituencies. None of our MLAs are unhappy. In contrast, discontent is growing in the Congress."

On the FIR filed against Vokkaliga seer Chandrashekhar Swami of Vishwa Vokkaliga Mahasamsthana Mutt for wanting a law to disenfranchise Muslims in the country, the JDS leader said, "Since coming to power, the Congress has been targeting one community to appease another. People will give a befitting response in the coming days."

On JDS MLA GT Devegowda expressing discontent, Nikhil said that the former will not quit the party. "Will convince him... my target is to win 58 seats for JDS," he said.

KPCC to meet today ahead of Hassan convention

Ahead of the KPCC convention to be held in Hassan, KPCC president and DyCM DK Shivakumar has called a meeting on Sunday in Bengaluru, which will be atteneded by various leaders, ministers, and MPs from Old Mysuru region. Even while planning to host the convention in Hassan, an anonymous letter sent to AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge, had made some strong exception to the rally. However, during his recent visit to Delhi, CM Siddaramaiah met Rahul Gandhi and is said to have gotten a nod from the party high command. The convention is expected to be a show of strength, after the recent bypoll results.

KPCC EXPELS GURAPPA NAIDU FOR 6 YEARS

BENGALURU: The Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) on Saturday expelled KPCC general secretary Gurappa Naidu from the party for six years, after a case was registered against him over allegations of harassing women. Recently, a 38-year-old woman, who used to work at an educational institution run by Naidu, accused him of harassing her. She also accused him of sexually harassing several other female staffers of the school. An FIR has been registered against Naidu under Sec 354A of the IPC. The complainant, who had worked at the school for two years since 2021, claimed that she quit her job, unable to bear the alleged harassment. Following this, KPCC Disciplinary Action Committee chairman K Rahman Khan on Saturday issued orders, expelling Naidu from the KPCC's primary membership for six years. ENS

BJP vs BJP: Party's worst internal strife in Karnataka

THE Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), which made a strong comeback in neighbouring Maharashtra and is going strong in several Hindi heartland states, is facing its worst-ever crisis in Karnataka — its gateway to the South. It is in total disarray. Internal strife has spilled over to the streets, and there is hardly any semblance of discipline.

The ruling Congress's 3:0 win in the recent bypolls and other disconcerting developments within the BJP have left its workers bewildered. Many in the party are puzzled as to why the central leadership is taking so long to bring order to the chaos. The situation has reached a complex stage. Any hurried resolution could hurt the party big, especially when it has suffered electoral reverses in the bypolls and needs to take on the Congress, which is bolstered by its wins.

After the bypolls setback, the BJP risks losing control over the narrative against the state government, which faces several controversies. The ongoing tussle between the state unit led by BY Vijayendra and the team headed by former Union minister and MLA Basangounda Patil Yatnal gives the impression that in Karnataka, BJP is fighting BJP, instead of working as a cohesive unit. That could impact the BJP's ability to function as an effective opposition within and outside the state legislature.

Differences between the two camps cropped up on several fronts. Be it the party's Bengaluru-Mysuru padayatra against Chief Minister Siddaramaiah over the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) sites allotment case or the Waqf land issue. Several senior leaders abstained from the MUDA padayatra in August this year. In the Waqf land issue, the Yatnal team has launched its own campaign from Bidar, while the party's state unit has other plans.

The situation within the party is so dire that the campaign, instead of highlighting the Waqf issue, is making news with its internal squabble. It went to such an extent that in Bidar, the BJP district unit president filed a complaint with police, accusing "unknown people" of using the party's banners and posters during the campaign, seeking action against them.

The tussle between Vijayendra and Yatnal goes back to when BS Yediyurappa was chief minister. It seems to have only aggravated since the young leader's elevation as the state president last year.

Vijayendra's camp considers Yatnal an "overrated leader" and questions the party seniors' silence over his tirade against Yediyurappa. They feel it's time the party acts tough. Under his leadership, the party did well in the Lok Sabha polls and tried to keep up pressure on the government. He, however, seems to be not getting full backing from the seniors.

Those in the know of the developments say the state president had attempted to reach out to Yatnal to put an end to the differences. But, that offer for talks was turned down.

However, his detractors within the party question the state president's style of functioning and many refuse to fully accept his leadership. Their strategy seems to keep up pressure on the party's central leaders in the hope that they will consider making major changes in the state unit.

Yatnal has emerged as a firebrand Hindutva leader in the party, especially after he took up the Waqf land issue. Union minister Shobha Karandlaje and many party leaders joined the Yatnal-led protest. Jagadambika Pal, chairman of the Joint Parliamentary Committee looking into the Waqf Amendment Bill, visited Vijayapura to talk to aggrieved farmers, giving credence to his campaign.

While intra-party differences between the state unit led by Vijayendra and the Yatnal team are most visible and vocal, there are many other groups and subgroups at play, complicating the situation for the party.

Even the RSS' intervention has failed to end the tussle. Those privy to the developments of the meeting called by the RSS leaders say it did not go well. Most BJP leaders invited for the meeting were 'antagonistic' towards Vijayendra. During the meeting, the state president is said to have told his party leaders that while he disagreed with their views, he was willing to take any suggestions in the party's interest.

Even top leaders admit that internal differences within the party impacted the bypolls, especially in Shiggaon, where it couldn't retain the assembly segment previously represented by former CM Basavaraj Bommai. His son Bharat Bommai was the candidate. The BJP, which was fully confident of winning the seat, failed to gauge the situation on the ground.

The results also showed that the biggest challenge for BJP today is to identify and groom leaders from different communities. It would be difficult for the party to win elections and come to power if it depends only on the Lingayat and Vokkaliga communities for votes. The strong consolidation of minorities and backward classes in favour of Congress showed that the BJP needs to rework its strategy in Karnataka.

Now, as they sit down to introspect on reasons for the setbacks in the bypolls, discuss differences within the party, and prepare for the local body polls, the party needs to realise that even potent issues and controversies against the government will be insufficient to win votes if it continues to lack a strong strategy and a cohesive team at the top to energize the cadre.

The party, which is going strong in other parts of the country, faces a daunting task in Karnataka, a key state in the South.

'JAIL AUTHORITY NEEDS TO LOOK INTO MATTER'

SIT attached to CID arrested Varma, who has been in judicial custody since June 13, 2024, after his arrest. CID filed the initial chargesheet against 12 accused, including Varma. Opposing the granting of bail, CID appraised the necessity of continuation of Varma's judicial custody to ensure the remaining part of further probe effectively. According to CID, Varma conspired with other accused to create rubber stamps and seals consisting of the signatures of the MD and Accounts Officer of the corporation. He forged signatures and fabricated documents with the help of other accused and was successful in committing financial fraud upon the corporation to the extent of ₹89.62 crore. Of which, he was found in possession of ₹8.48 crore cash, 15 kg gold, an apartment worth ₹3.4 crore, a car worth ₹3.31 crore, and another car worth ₹1.2 crore. He has utilised the crime proceeds etc., apart from distributing the remaining amount among other accused, including the middlemen and agents.

Referring to these charges and the prima facie involvement of the accused, who is likely to involve in similar offences if bail is granted, Judge KM Radhakrishna, Special Court for trial of cases under the Prevention of Corruption Act, said the court found no reason to rule out the grievance of the prosecution that the accused being an influential person is likely to abscond, hold threats to the prosecution witnesses, and destroy evidence in the event of bail being granted. "If really this accused is facing a threat to his life inside jail, rison authority needs to look into the matter and take steps to ensure his safety...," the judge said, while rejecting the bail application.

FENGAL BRINGS CHENNAI, NORTH TN TO STANDSTILL

Several parts report waterlogging, power outage on outskirts

Residents of Chennai wade through knee-deep water following heavy rain on Saturday | EXPRESS

SUBASHINI VIJAYAKUMAR & NIMISHA S PRADEEP @Chennai

CYCLONE Fengal brought heavy rain across Chennai on Saturday, with an average of 11 cm of rain recorded, leaving several northern areas of the city severely waterlogged. Residents of Pulianthope, Patalam, Vyasarpadi, Kodungaiyur, Kolathur, and Korattur dealt with inundated streets, power outages, and water entering their homes.

While the Greater Chennai Corporation had set up relief centres as a precautionary measure against flooding, a few of them lacked sufficient provisions such as blankets, drinking water, and food. Residents waded through knee-deep water to salvage belongings and seek help.

In Pulianthope, known to be vulnerable to water stagnation, heavy inundation once again became a grim reality. Many residents were seen navigating through stagnant water in search of essential provisions or heading to relatives' homes for shelter.

The residents evacuated from these areas were accommodated in the nearby GCC relief centre located at Chennai Middle School in Chinnandimadam, Kodungaiyur. However, the facility lacked basic amenities such as food, drinking water, and mats.

Following Cyclone Fengal, consistent rains since Friday night have inundated several parts of South Chennai. Ram Nagar, Murugu Nagar and AGS Colony in Velachery and Sadhasivam Nagar and Ram Nagar South in Madipakkam were among the worst affected areas.

Several streets in AGS Colony in Velachery remained under knee-deep water following heavy rains. "During Cyclone Michaung, water entered the ground-floor houses. Now, it has reached our parking area. We're hoping the rains will stop soon," said a resident of AGS Colony. Residents said that while there was reduced water stagnation during brief rain spells earlier this year, even slightly heavier rainfall still leads to knee-deep water stagnation affecting their daily life. Suburban areas such as Tambaram faced similar situations. Many places in Chennai, particularly areas on the outskirts, and nearby districts experienced power outage due to the Cyclone Fengal. Some areas like Medavakkam, Urapakkam, Red Hills, and Minjur reported power outage since morning.

Many people took to social media to highlight the issue. A senior official informed TNIE that power has been cut off deliberately in many areas as a precautionary measure. "The cyclone is expected to bring with it winds, which could damage infrastructure like poles and transformers."

Special teams have been formed to identify vulnerable areas, the official added. He also assured that the power supply would be restored by midnight. Chennai airport closed down its operations for 16 hours from Saturday noon till Sunday 4 am. Flight operations in other airports of Tamil Nadu were also affected. Hundreds of passengers were stranded at Chennai airport because of the cancellation of flights.

Official sources said the two runways and the taxiway were inundated and as many as 55 flights, both domestic and international, were cancelled and 19 others were diverted. Earlier in the day, when the airport was operational, at least 12 flights were delayed.

16 FLIGHTS DIVERTED TO BENGALURU

Bengaluru: With the Chennai airport closing down its operations for 16 hours due to strong winds and heavy rains caused by Cyclone Fengal, 16 flights, including five international ones, have been diverted to the Kempegowda International Airport (KIA). Trains too suffered some impact. A spokesperson of airport operator, Bangalore International Airport Limited, said that 11 domestic flights were diverted. "This included four Indigo flights and an equal number of Air India flights, one flight of Akasa Air, Spicejet and Star Air," he said.

India develops 1st long-range hypersonic missile

HEMANT KUMAR ROUT @Bhubaneswar

INDIA is the first country to develop a long-range hypersonic missile that can travel more than eight times the speed of sound and is a game-changer in global defence technology which no other countries have, claimed defence scientists.

The Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) recently test-fired the country's first long-range hypersonic missile that can carry both conventional and nuclear warheads to a distance exceeding 1,500 km at a speed of nearly 3 km per second.

Although in terms of technology, India is the fourth country to possess a hypersonic missile, it is the first country to have successfully tested a hypersonic missile that can travel twice the range of the missile that Russia has in its arsenal.

"The hypersonic missile that India now possesses is unique in terms of speed, range, precision and detectability," former DRDO chairman G Satheesh Reddy told TNIE.

The super fast hypersonic missile is of two types - hypersonic ballistic missile and hypersonic cruise missile. The hypersonic ballistic missiles are usually launched with a rocket booster. After the booster gets separated at a certain altitude, it travels towards the target much faster. The hypersonic cruise missiles, on the other hand, use scramjet engines to maintain speed throughout their flight path and possess high manoeuvrability.

Missile test fired on November 17

"What India has developed is not exactly a hypersonic cruise missile, but is like a hypersonic cruise missile. This missile is a technological marvel and a great achievement in India's missile technology," said a defence scientist.

₹250 cr worth drugs seized in last 1 year: HM

ENS @Mangaluru

STATING that the state government is working on a warfooting to curb the drug menace, Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said in the last one year, the police department has managed to seize drugs worth ₹250 crore.

Speaking to media during his visit to Mangaluru on Saturday, Parameshwara said police officials must take strict action against drug peddlers. "Despite that, if we find drug supply, we will hold police officials responsible. We have found that students especially from foreign countries are part of the drug menace and we are contacting the respective embassies and they are being deported. In many cases, we have invoked the Goonda Act. Police personnel must visit schools and colleges and create awareness on ill-effects of drugs," he said.

To a question on circulation of a letter opposing Swabhimani Samavesha of the Congress in Hassan, Parameshwara said there is no opposition to the rally and the letter might be a creation by the BJP. Regarding cabinet reshuffle, he said party high command will decide on it.

On FIR against Chandrashekharnath swamiji over his call to ban voting rights for Muslims, Parameshwara said nobody is above the law including the seer.

MATERNITY DEATH

No more use of IV Ringer's lactate

Expert panel to investigate deaths in hosps

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN the wake of the deaths of five postpartum women at the District Hospital and Ballari Medical College and Research Centre (BMRC), the state health department has suspended the use of IV Ringer's lactate in all government hospitals across the state as a precautionary measure, Health Minister Dinesh Gundu Rao announced on Saturday.

Rao explained that Ringer's lactate glucose has been in use in hospitals for a long time. This year, 192 batches of the IV solution were supplied by the Drug Supply Corporation to hospitals. However, following concerns raised about two specific batches during its use, all 192 batches were stopped as a precautionary measure. "Previously, after the manufacturer obtained a court order, the solution was tested at the Central Drug Laboratory. Based on this, a technical expert committee in Karnataka allowed the use of these specific batches in hospitals," Rao said, highlighting the background.

The focus now remains on the IV solution used at Ballari District Hospital, where doubts persist. The batches supplied there have been sent for anaerobic testing, to determine whether the solution contributed to the deaths of the postpartum women.

The minister said the test results are expected within a week, and a final decision on the use of the solution will be made based on these findings. "Until we receive clarity, the use of IV Ringer's lactate has been completely stopped across the state as a precautionary measure," he said, adding that hospitals have been instructed not to use the solution, though certain batches were found to meet quality standards.

Upalokayukta takes up suo motu case

Following news reports of the deaths of four postpartum women at the District Hospital and BMRC in Ballari this month, allegedly due to inadequate care and medication, Karnataka Upalokayukta Justice B Veerappa has taken suo motu action.

The Upalokayukta directed the Ballari Superintendent of Police to inspect the hospitals and submit a report, which was filed on Friday. Based on findings, a suo motu case was registered against doctors of both institutions, with notices seeking their explanation.

The Ballari DC, Ballari ZP-CEO, and health commissioner have been instructed to provide a detailed report within a month.

The supplier has been instructed to provide further compensation, which will be directly given to the families. Siddaramaiah announced the formation of an expert committee, chaired by the development secretary, to investigate similar deaths that have occurred in hospitals across the state. This committee has been tasked with submitting a comprehensive report within a week.

All batches of the Ringer's lactate solution used at the Ballari District Hospital have been withdrawn, and the solution is being tested to determine if it was the cause of the deaths. Disciplinary action will follow, including against the drugs controller, Siddaramaiah said.

The CM emphasised the need for tighter regulations under the Drug Control Act, with discussions under way to approach the Centre for further reforms. Siddaramaiah instructed the restructuring of the Drug Control Department and the overhaul of the medicine procurement process, based on TN model. "A high-level committee has been set up to investigate whether the Ringer's lactate solution has caused similar problems in other parts of the state," the CM said.

Seers on a mission to clear encroachment

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kalaburagi

A delegation of about 100 pontiffs from various mutts across the state under the banner of Veerashiva Lingayata Sanghatana Vedike will now pressure the Prime Minister, Union Ministers and MPs to clear the encroachment the land that was originally meant to construct the Anubhava Mantapa, said Pontiff Andola Shri Sidhalinga Swamiji of Karuneshwara Mutt here on Saturday.

Speaking at a press conference here, the original place of the Anubhava Mantapa of 12th century at Basavakalyan has been encroached and now it has been identified as Peer Pasha Bangla.

"The place of the original Anubhava Mantapa was encroached when the Nizams ruled over the region, and it was not cleared till date. Though everybody knew it, nobody including the successive governments took the initiative to clear the same. The delegation of pontiffs, at least now the Prime Minister, other union ministers and MPs should clear the encroachment and construct the Anubhava Mantapa in its original place," they said.

'Declining support towards tiger reserves a concern'

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

WITH increasing cases of man-animal conflict, securing the forest boundaries has become important, and with it, the need for funds is progressively increasing. But over the years, the funds allocated by the state and central governments, under Project Tiger (PT), Project Elephant (PE) and for forest fire mitigation is dipping.

There doesn't seem to be any additional support coming in for conservation and protection works, to the five tiger reserves in Karnataka - Bandipur, Nagarhole, Anshi-Dandeli (Kali), Bhadra and BRT.

A national park or a wildlife sanctuary is given the title of a tiger reserve, after due process as per Section 38-V of the Wildlife Protection Act 1972, after which, the tiger reserves are maintained according to the instructions of the National Tiger Conservation Authority.

"The present forest areas are well protected as national parks, and wildlife sanctuaries, as per the Wildlife Protection Act 1972, and other forest acts. After declaring an area as a Tiger Reserve, the reserve comes under centrally sponsored scheme, hence, is dependent on funds from the Centre and the State, where 50 per cent of the funds come from the Centre, and matching 50 per cent comes from the State. The funding under Project Tiger scheme has been dipping year on year, since 2015. In the year 2015, approximately Rs 350 crore was earmarked for the project, for the 38 tiger reserves in the country, which has reduced to about Rs 150 crore in 2023-24, for 54 tiger reserves," a forest department official told TNIE.

The project had released only Rs 49.16 crore towards Karnataka in 2019-20 against the sanctioned amount of Rs 58.29 crore. But, in 2022-23, only 50 per cent of the sanctioned amount of Rs 60.51 crore, was released by the Centre and State. The pending amount were not considered for the next year.

In 2023-24, only Rs 50.85 crore was released against the sanctioned amount of Rs 67.84 crore by the Centre and State.

"Due to the non-release of funds, matching grants from the state government has also came down, resulting in severe fund crunch. Since the works were approved by NTCA, they were carried out, but the amount was not released, leading to severe problems in payments. Moreover, the release of funds are delayed and the first installment itself is released only 6-7 months into the financial year, creating a challenge for the reserves to pay wages to the frontline staff," the official said.

> After declaring an area as a Tiger Reserve, the reserve comes under centrally sponsored scheme, hence, is dependent on funds from the Centre and the State
> Forest official

Also, the NTCA has not yet released the Rs 2.34 crore due, towards the Bandipur Tiger Reserve, for the 50th year commemoration programme, which was attended by the Prime Minister. "The payments to the agency and Hotel have been cleared by the Bandipur Tiger Reserve, awaiting funds from the NTCA," the official added.

The official pointed that while funds for Project Tiger are still better, condition is extremely poor for Project Elephant, which has now been merged with the Project Tiger. For instance, in 2022-23, Rs 30.01 crore was released under Project Tiger and only Rs 1.71 crore under Project Elephant. In 2021-22, central government released Rs 50.56 crore under for tigers and Rs 4.35 crore for elephants.

The Centre released Rs 2.279 crore for forest fire management in 2019-20, which dipped to Rs 88.08 lakhs in 2023-24.

Sa Ra Mahesh seeks legal action against IAS officer

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

IN an interesting development, former minister and JDS leader Sa Ra Mahesh had demanded the Congress government to initiate legal action against IAS officer Rohini Sindhuri and has threatened to approach court if no legal action is initiated against her.

Mahesh had a bitter feud against the former deputy commissioner of Mysuru. Mahesh had filed a defamation case against Sindhuri after she accused him of land grabbing and encroachment. But with the intervention of senior bureaucrat P Manivannan, the matter was settled with a compromise and Mahesh had withdrawn the case.

"Who is protecting Sindhuri who is facing charges of corruption and misuse of government funds?," he questioned.

Reiterating the charges against the IAS officer, Mahesh said that Rohini did not take the approval of local bodies for the purchase of cloth bags when she was the deputy commissioner. A bag that was available for ₹13 in the open market was purchased for ₹52 and public money was misused. Also, an indoor swimming pool, a gym, and a building were constructed without permission at the cost of ₹50 lakh on the premises of the official residence of the DC for which ₹16.35 lakh was wasted. Similarly, due to her dereliction of duty, 24 corona infected people died in Chamarajanagar due to lack of oxygen.

AT THE ROOT OF SLOWDOWN: IT'S POLITICS, STUPID

THE THIRD EYE

THE murmurs and fears echoing in living rooms, bazaars and C-suites for weeks and months have come home to roost. All is clearly not well with the economy.

On Friday, the ministry of statistics informed India that GDP growth in the July-September quarter, at 5.4 percent, has fallen from 8.1 percent in the same period last year—the slowest in nearly two years. Gross value addition (GVA), at 5.6 percent, is lower than nominal GVA of 8.1 percent. Yes, it is still the fastest growing large economy, but the economy is growing well below its potential. Given India's demography, this entails risks in the medium and long terms, and carries political implications.

The reality of a slowdown has been manifest in high-frequency data on consumer demand visible across sectors and corporate earnings which, by one estimate, have hit a four-year low. Indeed, a study by Motilal Oswal suggests Nifty earnings may be dismal and grow by a modest 5 percent this year. Worsening the picture is a steady erosion in urban wages impacting consumption.

Data points, though, didn't shake or stir the nation's money manager. The Reserve Bank of India on October 9 recorded that growth was slower in the first quarter, but asserted that GDP growth in the second quarter would touch 7.2 percent. This column—in a copy titled 'Scent of a Slowdown'—had observed that the forecast would be challenged. As per the RBI, real GDP growth for 2024-25 was projected at 7.2 percent. At the halfway mark, GDP growth stands at 6 percent and the strike rate required to achieve the forecast is challenging, to say the least.

The granular details of the slowdown are stark. Manufacturing fell from 14.3 percent in the second quarter of 2023-24 to 2.2 percent; mining, which clocked 11.1 percent last year, has slid into contraction territory. Agriculture, at 3.5 percent, is growing faster than manufacturing. The India story in recent years has been fuelled by public investment. On a year-on-year basis, the government's final consumption expenditure has dipped from 14 percent to 4.4 percent in the second quarter this year; the gross fixed capital formation, which is code for new investments, has slid from 11.6 percent to 5.4 percent.

Effectively, government expenditure is lower. Private sector capex is slower even as just the top 10 companies are sitting over a cash pile of ₹5.5 lakh crore. Private consumption is poorer as the desire and ability of consumers is haunted by the cost of living and employment uncertainty visible in shrinking hiring and campus placements. The net result is that the rate of growth is lower than the rate of inflation. The cliché is money makes the mare go round, fuelling investment, job creation, incomes and consumption. The lack of expenditure, investments, incomes and consumption is dragging down growth. In short, inflationary politics has deflated growth.

A parade of reasons has been offered for lower government expenditure—ranging from the many elections to extreme weather events. It is arguable that there is merit in the arguments, even if only in part. The villain of the slowdown is poor governance. Analysts have pointed out that state governments have overspent on sops—RBI data reflects the rise in revenue expenditure deployed for freebies—and underspent on projects. A recent report by India Ratings suggests that nearly ₹62,000 crore of the ₹11.11 lakh crore for infra may not be spent.

There is unspent money and there is the cost of money. Private consumption accounts for over 61 percent of the GDP, and both access to and cost of money matter for the sustenance of demand. Consumers are facing a double whammy—the crackdown on personal loans and higher interest rates. The RBI has much to answer for: from its forecasts for GDP growth to inflation targets. In January, the RBI argued that food price inflation was outside its realm, and in August, it argued that it is obliged to bring it down. Meanwhile, food inflation has averaged above 7 percent for over 18 months. In November, the consumer price index was at 6.2 percent and food price inflation at 10.9 percent. There is much lather about the need for a rate cut. Yes, it will help boost demand, but addressing the slowdown calls for more than a rate cut.

India's economy requires urgent structural reforms. Households have been forced to rejig budgets to accommodate the rise in food prices. Higher interest rates have scarcely dented the price line. The cause—beyond vagaries of weather and whimsical policies—rests in the inadequacies of availability, storage, distribution and processing. The answers squarely rest in the domain of state governments. Take employment generation, which calls for active investment promotion. It is no secret that labour laws hinder scaling up of businesses, yet the new labour codes designed in 2019 to ease matters are pending adoption in many states. Add cumbersome and archaic regulatory requirements.

It is not that the political class is unaware of the faultlines. The innovations visible in the electoral arena are expressions of awareness. The harsh truth is that the electoral algebra favours sops paid for by taxpayers over macro development for employment and growth. In the 1990s, Bill Clinton rode to power on the slogan 'It's the economy, stupid'. In the Indian context, the essential cause of the slowdown is, well, the politics!

IS the world religious order crumbling? Amsterdam to Paris and London to New York, vicious, violent mobs of immigrants have launched savage salvos against civilisation. Its new echo chamber is Bangladesh, where a winner of the Nobel Peace Prize seems to deserve the 'ignoble prize' for communal carnage.

Ever since Muhammad Yunus, chief adviser to the interim Bangladesh government, was imported to Dhaka from the West, an ethnic cleansing of Hindus started on a scale unprecedented since partition. The communal credentials of the darling of the Western Deep State are no secret: in 2005, he made it to the list of 'The Muslim 500: The World's 500 Most Influential Muslims' compiled by the Amman-based Royal Islamic Strategic Studies Centre. The recent imprisonment of a former ISKCON spiritual leader, Chinmoy Krishna Das, on sedition charges shows the leopard hasn't changed its spots.

The citation of Yunus's Nobel reads: "Every single individual on Earth has both the potential and the right to live a decent life. Across cultures and civilisations, Yunus and Grameen Bank have shown that even the poorest of the poor can work to bring about their own development."

The Yunus paradox is that the man who established and headed the Bangladesh Information Centre in the US to promote the cause of his country's liberation from Pakistan, should now become Islamabad's puppet and Washington's lapdog by opening the sea route to Pakistan. Worse, Yunus, a former founding member of Nelson Mandela's The Elders—a group set up to "contribute their wisdom, independent leadership and integrity to tackle some of the world's toughest problems"—presides over communal apartheid in his own country, where eight of every 100 citizens are deprived of their right to live safely.

In the past four months, many prominent Hindu and other minority leaders have been arrested on grounds that would make a walrus laugh. A puppet of the renewed CIA-ISI nexus, Deep State decoy Yunus hasn't abandoned his political ambitions although, in 2007, his Nagorik Shakti party was stillborn. Now, Bangladesh is run by the 84-year-old who is standing by malefic fundamentalist insanity. He has turned India, Bangladesh's father, from an ally of decades into its most hated foe. He has ignored Indian generosity of over $10 billion given for Bangladesh's development. The jihadists ignore that it is India which provides 25 percent of its electricity.

AFP

The anti-Modi, liberal Western collaborative umbrella protects Yunus to promote his regime without accountability. Sheikh Hasina was autocratic too. But on Yunus's watch, most of her cabinet ministers were killed or jailed; the judiciary was purged. Popular rage stoked by Pakistani provocateurs was directed more against India than Hasina. Yunus ordered the release of jailed anti-India elements, including former PM Khaleda Zia. The regime change led to the reversal of a secular polity by targeting minorities led by Hindus.

After suffering for a couple of months, the Hindu resistance was quelled by brutal force. Loyalists to the Constitution were arrested. ISKCON was banned even after its former leader Chinmoy Krishna Das clarified, "To all Sanatanis, I would like to request our beloved homeland, this Bangladesh—we do not want to leave this country. We are sons of this land. We would like to preserve the heritage and the culture of our land." His patriotism was ignored.

The influential Bangladesh Hindu Buddhist Christian Unity Council recorded more than 2,000 attacks on Hindus since August 5. The ball is in Modi's court now to deal with its genocidal neighbour. As the atrocities mount, his government is under immense pressure to take retaliatory and punitive steps.

The Sangh parivar has accelerated its campaign to complete its unfinished agenda of booting out infiltrators. Since its core causes—construction of the Ram Mandir, abrogation of Article 370, partial implementation of a unified civil code and cultural corrections in the Indian education system—have been resolved, they feel the time has come to oust illegal immigrants from Pakistan and Bangladesh to tame domestic fundamentalism. The number of infiltrators nationwide varies from 20 million to 25 million. The BJP perceives them as vote banks of the Congress and regional parties in Assam and West Bengal.

It was Modi who started the agitation against infiltrators when he was Gujarat CM. At a rally during his campaign for PM in 2014, he charged Manmohan Singh of protecting illegal immigrants: "Prime minister, the country wants to know what are you thinking about Bangladeshi infiltration. What are your policies? Will Bangladeshis have a sway in India?" After becoming PM, he asserted at his first public meeting in Assam: "I understand the sentiments of Assamese people. Even when it comes to land acquisition, we will bear national interest in mind and the interest of the people of Assam. I will make such arrangements that Bangladeshis, who infiltrate into Assam and trouble you, are pushed out. I left home to serve my motherland. And the land of Assam is also my mother."

Illegal intrusion has been a major poll plank of the BJP, even during the latest state elections. Modi declared in Jharkhand, "Bangladeshi and Rohingyas infiltrators have become a major threat to Santhal Parganas and Kolhan regions. The demography of these regions is changing fast. The tribal population is on the decline. The infiltrators are establishing control of the panchayat system, grabbing land, indulging in atrocities on daughters... Each Jharkhand resident is feeling unsafe".

Amit Shah promised, "Change the government once in Jharkhand. I want to assure you that the BJP will drive out Rohingyas and illegal Bangladeshis from Jharkhand, one by one." The mome ministry is already tracking undocumented Bangladeshis in various cities—over a thousand have been deported. BJP-led state governments have appointed task forces to identify and point out suspicious residents to officials.

Change of regime and deportation aren't Modi's only weapons. An economic blockade can force Yunus to dial down the violence. During the 15 years of Hasina's regime, Bangladesh became India's largest development partner. It received a credit line of $8 billion for infrastructure development. Bangladeshis are the largest group visiting India for leisure and work. Kolkata is a second home to many. Soon after the attacks on Hindus began, India closed its visa centre in Dhaka, which has seriously impacted local citizens.

Modi must use his global stature to isolate a communal Bangladesh. Its new leaders preach to India to "recalibrate their policy instead of crying foul on their issue. Accept the fact that Bangladesh has moved on, and [you] move on, too". Modi should definitely retaliate by moving faster and leverage his friendship with Donald Trump to withdraw American support to an extremist Yunus establishment.

During the election, Trump posted on X: "I strongly condemn the barbaric violence against Hindus, Christians and other minorities who are getting attacked and looted by mobs in Bangladesh, which remains in a total state of chaos." It is now up to Modi to wield the Excalibur of geopolitical power against India's communal connivers and protect Hindus and other oppressed minorities in other homelands, too, to become the warrior prophet of global Hinduism.

FORTY-thousand feet up in the air and 11 hours to kill. There's something about catching up with missed films when suspended in space and time on a flight. The latest I came upon was Nithish Sahadev's 2023 Malayalam movie Falimy on my way to Marrakesh for the international film festival. It's a straightforward narrative about the complicated lives in a dysfunctional family and their convoluted journey to Kashi. Dramatic, with many unexpected twists on the road to Varanasi, the film could have easily become a cloying weepy, but Sahadev's lighthearted touch keeps it heartwarming.

What surprised me more than the film itself was the reaction of my fellow passenger who noticed me enjoying it. The gentleman from Canada had his curiosity piqued enough to take a peek at the film himself, said he found it relatable, and would be recommending it to his friends. He also declared it didn't feel like an Indian film and that the quirky ensemble and their crazy journey reminded him a bit of the 2006 Hollywood film Little Miss Sunshine.

It got us talking about Indian cinema, how it largely continues to get identified in the West—not just by the layperson, but cinephiles too—with the song-n-dance and melodrama of commercial Hindi films. The huge success of RRR did appear to have got its foot in the door for other Indian languages. But, as with the airline's entertainment system, the vexing habit of clubbing all Indian films under the Bollywood umbrella has been hard to break.

Cut to a conversation I recently had with Marathi filmmaker Nikhil Mahajan, whose environment thriller Raavsaaheb competed at the just-concluded IFFI in Goa. Mahajan was making a case for wider global patronage for films like Falimy and his own. That international festivals pick up arthouse Indian films, while at the same time going for commercial Korean cinema, leaves middle-of-the-road filmmakers like him stranded. Semi-commercial films like his have no international festivals to find a home in.

Mahajan thinks that the Indian picks at festivals have a defined aesthetic and show only a certain side of India. Irony is that even arthouse Indian cinema hasn't had a consistent benefaction internationally. It took 30 years since Shaji N Karun's Swaham in 1994 for an Indian film to find a place in the competition section at Cannes. No wonder, Payal Kapadia took her own sweet revenge in her Grand Prix acceptance speech for All We Imagine as Light: "Please don't wait 30 years to have another Indian film."

Western audiences continue to club all Indian films under the Bollywood umbrella. On the other hand, global festivals mostly pick arthouse films from India. This denies international exposure to many worthy films made in the country

Unlike Chinese or Korean cinema, a single, distinct Indian cinematic vocabulary remains elusive for the West to pin it down with. Just like the diversity among our people, languages and cultures, so is it for our cinema. I often try to reduce our multiculturalism for monocultures: think of us as a continent than a country. Similarly, think of our cinema like the motley bunch coming out of Europe, but even they're more artistically allied than the many-splendoured spread in India—from Punjabi to Bhojpuri, Marathi to Malayalam. The cinema from the Northeast has itself been speaking in lingos as varied as Kokborok and Sherdukpen.

It's a relevant conversation to have yet again with the world at a time when Indian cinema is having a glorious year—the need to engage with Indian filmmaking in all its diversity and consistently so than offering us flash in the pan acknowledgements and those proverbial 15 minutes of fame.

Meanwhile, our own thought also needs to change radically when it comes to what we think constitutes Indian cinema. Not all commercial films might be necessarily bad and not all indies are about great filmmaking. For the Film Federation of India's Oscar selection jury to have roundly dismissed AWIAL as "like a foreign film and not Indian cinema" was imprudent. In an increasingly globalised times, all the world should be a stage for young Indian filmmakers with far-reaching exposure and influences from around the world.

Whatever be the influences of AWIAL, what's important is that it never panders to the West's expectations of Indian moviemaking. There is an honesty to the lived experience and evocation of urban loneliness on screen, a specificity to the struggles and solidarities of women that transcends boundaries.

It's the faithfulness to the local that makes it reach out globally. Just as it happened with The Lunchbox or Monsoon Wedding many moons ago. It's time then to broaden the horizons than trying to narrow definitions. Let a thousand Indian filmmaking flowers bloom.

We have seen what you have done... gavelling and trying to ignore parties from speaking does not behove the UN system... We had informed the presidency that we wanted to make a statement prior to any decision on the adoption. However, this has been stage-managed. And we are extremely, extremely disappointed.

Ensuring hygiene

Ref: Telangana school food supply needs overhaul (Nov 30). As the editorial rightly says, politicising the tragedy of food poisoning in government schools and hostels in Telangana will never solve problem. No one bothers to find out the cause and call for rectifying measures. The need is efficient supervision of the purchasing and ensuring their cleanliness till cooked. Let's hope that after the high court's intervention, the administrators will be serious in preventing such incidents.

Jayaprakash Reddy, Nalgonda

Audit supplies

Preventing food poisoning would require systemic reforms stressing safety, accountability and hygiene. Food supplies should be sourced from certified vendors with regular quality checks, while the kitchen staff must be trained in hygienic preparation of meals. Routine health audits conducted by food safety officers are also vital for detecting contamination and ensuring the safety of students.

Amal Fathima, Bengaluru

Protect children

It is imperative that places for children like schools are scrutinised on a regular basis, as it is extremely disconcerting that basic requirements like hygienic food are not taken care of. It is bringing about grievous results such as the death of children, which must be avoided at all costs.

Economic momentum

Ref: Govt must raise capex as slower GDP growth changes calculations (Nov 30). Given the growth slowdown, the government should prioritise not just raising capital expenditure but also focusing on manufacturing and infrastructure to stimulate short-term demand and long-term growth. Addressing inflation and improving consumer spending are equally critical for sustaining momentum.

Lashmitha M, Bengaluru

Wake-up call

This slowdown can be attributed to various factors, including inflationary pressures, subdued corporate performance, and sluggish private consumption. It is essential for the government to implement policies that promote investment, boost consumer spending, and support the manufacturing sector. It is also crucial to recognise the impact of global economic trends on India's growth. It is a wake-up call for policymakers.

Neighbourly contrast

Ref: Before Dhaka sets a fresh date with democracy (Nov 30). Our neighbouring nations treat minorities with scant respect and do not act against violence committed on them by fanatics. It is in contrast to the treatment of minority sentiments accorded by most politicians in India. It is a pity we have leaders who hardly respect their nation's security. It is time for the people to stop this dangerous design followed by some power-hungry leaders.

V S Ganeshan, Bengaluru

Local focus

Ref: A season for one nation, many elections (Nov 29). Recent remarks by Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge rightly emphasise the need for accountability and state-specific strategies to address electoral failures. His question about relying on national issues for state elections highlights a crucial gap in political planning. Parties must focus on grassroots realities, act swiftly, and ensure accountability to rebuild public trust.

Study flexibility

Ref: UGC approves flexible study duration of UG (Nov 29). Students can now complete undergraduate programmes at their own pace. Those juggling jobs or other responsibilities can pursue education without adhering to rigid timelines. However, some challenges have to be crossed—ensuring uniform credit transfer mechanisms across universities could be complex. This flexibility is welcome, but it shouldn't compromise academic rigour.

NGT slams MoEF for 'stalling action' on school infra

SHEKHAR SINGH @ New Delhi

THE National Green Tribunal (NGT) has strongly criticised the Union Ministry of Environment, Forest and Climate Change (MoEFCC) for obstructing its proceedings by failing to provide a decisive response regarding the health risks posed to students by asbestos sheets in educational institutions. The tribunal called the ministry's inaction a "serious obstruction" to its functioning.

A bench comprising Justice Sudhir Agarwal and expert member Afroz Ahmad noted that the MoEFCC had ignored prior directives to hold a scientific study on the potential hazards of asbestos exposure in schools.

The NGT had earlier sought clarity on whether the health risks for students differed from those faced by industrial workers exposed to asbestos. Despite being asked to submit a report after forming a multi-disciplinary expert committee, the ministry failed to deliver any substantive findings.

The tribunal expressed frustration over the lack of compliance, stating, "The environmental ministry's inaction has paralysed the tribunal's ability to proceed. This amounts to a direct impediment caused by the ministry itself."

During the proceedings, the ministry's advocate revealed that a 12-member committee had been constituted but admitted that no study had been conducted to address the NGT's concerns. The absence of any ministry official to explain this failure further aggravated the situation.

Given the ministry's repeated non-compliance, the tribunal has now directed a senior MoEFCC officer, not below the rank of joint secretary, to appear personally in the next hearing.

The NGT said that officer must explain why the ministry failed to act on the tribunal's September 25 order, warning that non-compliance constitutes a legal offence.

The tribunal's pointed criticism highlights the urgency of addressing the use of hazardous asbestos materials in schools, which poses severe health risks to children.

The matter will be taken up further on December 17.

Break-ups not abetment of suicide by default: SC

Court says broken relationships distressing, but not criminal offence

SUCHITRA K MOHANTY @ New Delhi

EMOTIONALLY distressing broken relationships do not automatically amount to abetment of suicide unless there is clear intention linked to the criminal offence, the Supreme Court has observed.

"This is a case of a broken relationship, not criminal conduct," a two-judge bench of the apex court, led by Justice Pankaj Mithal, and also comprising Justice Ujjal Bhuyan, said, in a 17-page judgment.

The court set aside the conviction of one Kamaruddin Dastagir Sanadi by the Karnataka High Court for the offences of cheating and abetment of suicide under various Sections of the Indian Penal Code, including 420 (cheating), 306 (abetment of suicide), and 376 (rape).

Primarily, the trial court acquitted Sanadi of all the charges. But Karnataka govt had filed an appeal in the Karnataka High Court and challenged the lower court's acquittal order. The HC convicted him of cheating and abetment of suicide, and sentenced him to five years imprisonment with ₹25,000 as fine.

Then Sanadi moved the apex court challenging the HC's conviction order.

According to the prosecution, the FIR was filed against Sanadi at the insistence of the victim's mother. The victim, 21-year-old woman was in love with the accused for the past eight years and died by suicide in August, 2007, after he refused to keep his promise to marry.

Writing a 17-page judgement, Justice Mithal analysed the two dying declarations of the woman and noted that neither was there any allegation of a physical relationship between the couple nor was there an intentional act leading to the death.

The judgment stressed that broken relationships were emotionally distressing, but did not automatically amount to criminal offences.

"Even in cases where the victim dies by suicide, which may be as a result of cruelty meted out to her, the courts have always held that discord and differences in domestic life are quite common in society and that the commission of such an offence largely depends upon the mental state of the victim," said the top court.

The court further said, "Surely, until and unless some guilty intention on the part of the accused is established, it is ordinarily not possible to convict him for an offence under Section 306 IPC." The judgment said there was no evidence to suggest that the man instigated or provoked the woman to die by suicide.

Shankar was notified as an ASG by the Appointments Committee of the Cabinet on September 9. VAIBHAV SURYAVANSHI

13-YEAR-OLD SENSATION IN BIG LEAGUE OF IPL

FIROZ MIRZA

AT an age when most children are confused between pursuing studies with earnestness and following other more recreational vocations, this 13-year-old had been chasing his dream, with a willow in his hand and wild ambition in his heart. Barely in his teens, the youngster has shown glimpses of prodigious talent. Scoring runs has been his vocation, hitting fours and sixes his passion.

As fate would have it, Vaibhav Suryanvanshi has just landed ₹1.1 crore during the Indian Premier League mega auction this week. If anyone thought earning a crore at 13 is not possible, he has shown there are such astounding aberrations. Life for him has changed. The boyish innocence and adolescent maturity will be tested more intensely than ever before.

Days after creating history at the IPL mega auction, all eyes were on Vaibhav when India took on arch-rivals Pakistan in the U19 Asia Cup in Dubai on Saturday. The left hand batter, who wants to model himself around the great Brian Lara, might have got out for one in his debut match, which his team eventually lost by 43 runs. Yet, in the process he has created another record. The batter who bowls slow left arm orthodox became the youngest Indian cricketer to play for India U19 team. At 13 years and 248 days, he broke the record of leggie Piyush Chawla, who made his India U19 debut at 14 years and 311 days.

During an interview with official broadcasters Sony Sports during the U19 Asia Cup event, Vaibhav said he is right now focused on his game and would take one match at a time. He also revealed that Lara, another left-handed batter, is his role model. "I like to play like him. The rest, I try to keep it natural with whatever skills I have and I want to work on that."

Signed by Rajasthan Royals for ₹1.10 crore on November 26, making him the youngest player to earn an IPL deal, every move Vaibhav makes on and off the field will be followed more minutely. Saturday was no different.

Born in Bihar's Tajpur town of Samastipur district, Vaibhav's cricketing journey started at the age of four. Noticing his son's passion for the game, father Sanjeev Suryavanshi, a farmer, cleared a small area for him in the backyard of his home. It is also reported that the father even sold a piece of land to fund his son's dreams.

A couple of years later, he joined Cricket Academy Samastipur. It marked his association with coach Brijesh Jha, who saw the potential only a year later and started working on Vaibhav to prepare him for future grinds. "His home is around 12-13 kilometres from our academy. In his early days, he used to come at 3 pm after attending school. Only a year later, we decided to pay extra attention to him as we found he has abilities to make it to the top," Jha said after the historic signing by the Rajasthan franchise.

Vaibhav then started accompanying the senior team for practice and club matches. "For almost a year, we gave him a feel of what happens on a match day. Once he developed that confidence of playing against senior boys, we included him in the playing XI. He might not have scored quickly then but spending time at the crease and facing 50 or more deliveries at such a pace from boys elder to him definitely boosted his confidence," the coach said. Till 2018-19, Vaibhav played in his age group and then was graduated to the senior level.

Since then, Vaibhav has not looked back. Last year, he was picked in India B U19 team for a quadrangular series also involving India A, Bangladesh and England. The series held in Andhra Pradesh was essentially a trial to pick the national team for the 2024 ICC U19 World Cup. Given his modest outings, Vaibhav was not picked in the squad. The teen has a knack of making a comeback. He did so when he found a place in Bihar's Ranji Trophy squad. Vaibhav soon made his Ranji debut against domestic heavyweights Mumbai in January 2024 and has played five first-class matches and a T20 match in the ongoing Syed Mushtaq Ali Trophy.

The teenager scripted yet another slice of history in September this year when he made his India U19 debut in a youth Test match against Australia in Chennai.

He might not have performed always, but the youngster always turn the table. With age by his side and fire in the belly backed by talent, the world seems to be at his feet. At least at the moment.

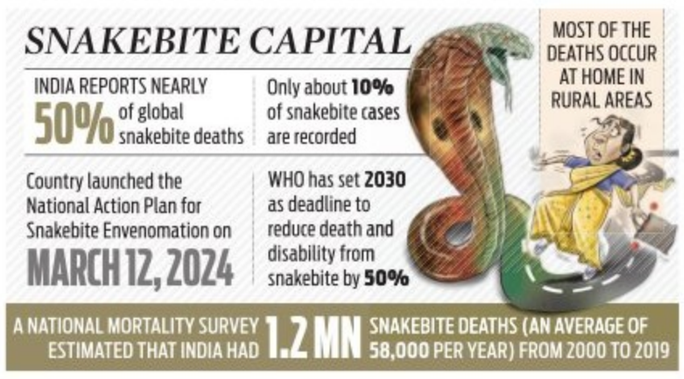
Snakebite declared 'notifiable disease', Centre seeks to reduce deaths by '30

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi



SNAKEBITE CAPITAL
INDIA REPORTS NEARLY 50% of global snakebite deaths
Only about 10% of snakebite cases are recorded
Country launched the National Action Plan for Snakebite Envenomation on MARCH 12, 2024
WHO has set 2030 as deadline to reduce death and disability from snakebite by 50%
MOST OF THE DEATHS OCCUR AT HOME IN RURAL AREAS
A NATIONAL MORTALITY SURVEY ESTIMATED THAT INDIA HAD 1.2 MN SNAKEBITE DEATHS (AN AVERAGE OF 58,000 PER YEAR) FROM 2000 TO 2019

INDIA — often dubbed as the world's 'snakebite capital' since the country reports nearly 50 per cent of related deaths globally — has declared snakebite as a 'notifiable disease'.

This makes it a disease to be reported to authorities mandatorily by law.

In a letter dated November 27, Union health secretary Punya Salila Srivastava urged the states and Union Territories "to make snakebite cases and deaths a 'notifiable disease' under the relevant provisions of State Public Health Act or other applicable legislation, making it mandatory for all government and private health facilities (including medical colleges) to report all suspected snakebite cases and deaths."

Though the Union health ministry has made the declaration now, some states like Karnataka and Tamil Nadu have already taken a step in this direction. The Centre's announcement also comes as the World Health Organisation (WHO) aims to reduce global snakebite deaths and injuries by 50 per cent by 2030.

Dr Rahul Gajbhiye, scientist at the Indian Council of Medical Research-National Institute for Research in Reproductive and Child Health (ICMR-NIRRCH) in Mumbai, said, "This move will help India do better monitoring and mitigation of the effects of snakebites, especially in tribal and rural areas. This will lead to accurate reporting of cases, improve access to anti-venom and emergency medical care, and enhance the overall response from both state and national healthcare systems," he said.

Noting that the decision is a monumental step towards recognising the accurate scale of this neglected health issue, former ICMR-NIRRCH director Dr Smita Mahale recalled that the institute initiated a research on snakebite in 2014. The research — funded by ICMR's tribal health research forum and implemented through MRHRU at Dahanu in Palghar district of Maharashtra — through training of medical officers on management of snakebite envenoming and active involvement of community and traditional healers, brought the death rate down by 90%.

Seeing the potential of the Dahanu model, the ICMR National Task Force on snakebite research in India upscaled the project to Maharashtra and Odisha through the ICMR National Snakebite Project.

Dr Gajbhiye, the principal investigator of the Dahanu snakebite project, said, "The true extent of the issue has been obscured by a lack of data, as snakebites often go unreported due to the absence of a systematic tracking mechanism. Making snakebite notifiable at the national level will be a milestone in snakebite control in India."

NMC notice to 198 med colleges for not sharing info on stipends to medics

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

THE National Medical Commission (NMC) has issued show cause notices to 198 government and private medical colleges and institutions for not sharing information about stipends paid to undergraduate interns, postgraduate residents and senior residents.

While a whopping 115 government medical colleges and institutions failed to submit information on stipends paid to interns and junior and senior residents, as many as 83 private colleges also did not submit the details.

Most medical colleges and institutions violating the norms are located in Telangana, Rajasthan, Karnataka, Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and Kerala.

Among the prestigious institutions that failed to comply with the NMC order include Delhi's Maulana Azad Medical College and Atal Bihari Vajpayee Institute of Medical Sciences, and Dr RML Hospital.

The move came only after the Supreme Court ordered NMC to submit the details of stipends paid to the medical interns and residents.

Following this, the NMC directed these health institutions and medical colleges to submit the stipend details to their UG interns, PG residents and senior residents or PGs in the super speciality for 2023-24 and 2024-25 on their websites every month.

However, as many failed to submit the information on time, the NMC issued a show cause as to "why penal action should not be taken against them for their failure to submit the information/details of the stipend paid."

In a letter dated November 28, NMC Secretary Dr B Srinivas said the "defaulting medical colleges are directed to furnish the data relating payment of stipend during 2023-24 on the dedicated email ID immediately and within the next 3 days from the issue of this show cause notice."

Twelve government medical colleges and institutions in Telangana and Rajasthan failed to submit the details on a stipend. It was followed by states like Maha (11), Karnataka (10), Tamil Nadu and Kerala (6 each), and Jammu and Kashmir (5), Bihar, Delhi, Haryana, Jharkhand (4 each).

@20km/day, rly track electrification gathers pace

₹8,070 CRORE allocated for railway line electrification in FY24 Budget
AIM: NET ZERO CARBON EMISSIONS BY 2030
Around 97% of broad gauge rail has been electrified
More than 20 km of railway track is being electrified everyday in 2023-24, against 1.42 km a day during 2004-14
Electrification of rail lines is environment-friendly and 70% more economical than diesel tractions
Railways in 14 states have achieved full electrification and it is nearing completion in 8-9 states

THE Indian Railways has electrified 97% of broad gauge tracks at a pace of 20 km every day to meet the target of net zero carbon emissions by 2030.

"The Railways has taken up electrification of broad gauge rail lines in a mission mode. Since 2014-15, the IR has completed electrification of about 45,200 kms of tracks," Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw said in a reply in Lok Sabha.

He said electrification has jumped from 1.42 km tracks per day during 2004-14 to 19.7 during 2023-24. "Electric traction is not only more environment-friendly but also about 70% more economical than diesel tractions," the minister said.

"Reliable power supply is crucial for electric train operations. The system incorporates multiple safeguards, including connections to the national grid through state and central transmission utilities," he said.

Electrification is being carried out in a mission mode because the national transporter is aiming to become green railways. Many of its zones have achieved 100 per cent electrification, Vaishnaw said.

In this context, the Northeast Frontier Railway (NFR) is accelerating electrification projects on all un-electrified broad gauge routes within its jurisdiction to meet its targets of net zero carbon emissions and 100 per cent electrification. Among all railway zones spearheading this initiative, NFR is actively progressing with electrification of the remaining BG routes under its purview.

A senior railways official told this newspaper said that a budget of ₹8,070 crore was allocated for electrification in FY 2023-24. "In 14 states the railways has achieved full electrification of tracks and it is nearing completion in 8-9 states," the official said, adding all broad gauge rail lines will be fully electrified by this year-end.

UP has electrified 8,546 km of broad gauge rail lines, followed by Maharashtra (5,815 km), Madhya Pradesh (4,944 km), Andhra Pradesh (3,841 km), Bihar (3,802 km), Odisha (2,901 km), Punjab (2,288 km), Telangana (1,923 km), Haryana (1,780 km), Chhattisgarh (1,279 km), Kerala (1,046 km), J&K (396 km), Uttarakhand (347 km) and Himachal Pradesh (67 km).

Meanwhile, Vaishnaw on Saturday inspected a track slab manufacturing factory for the Mumbai-Ahmedabad bullet train project near Surat in Gujarat. Vaishnaw said all the equipment at the factory in Kim was brought from Japan before their manufacturing was started in India, which will be beneficial for future construction projects.

Another passing out parade was held at the triservice National Defence Academy (NDA) in Pune, reviewed by Chief of Air Staff Air Chief Marshal Amar Preet Singh, marked a batch of 357 officer cadets completing their training.

The National Defence Academy trains officer cadets from three services — Army, Navy and the Air Force. It also imparts training to cadets from friendly foreign countries. The academy trains the cadets, who join after completion of their senior secondary school, for three years. After the passing out parade, the cadets go to their respective officers' training academies to train for another year before being commissioned.

SP MPs on their way to the trouble-torn town stopped in Ghaziabad

Sambhal admin extends ban on entry of outsiders

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THE Sambhal district administration on Saturday extended the restriction on the entry of outsiders in the western UP district till December 10. Its earlier ban on the entry of outsiders had to expire on Saturday.

Meanwhile, three Samajwadi Party MPs, on their way to Sambhal, were stopped in Ghaziabad. A 15-member delegation of the main opposition party in UP was scheduled to visit Sambhal to gather information about the violence that broke out on November 24 over a court-ordered survey of the Shahi Jama Masjid.

Leader of Opposition in the UP Assembly Mata Prasad Pandey, who had to lead the SP delegation, told mediapersons outside his Lucknow residence that a senior IAS officer called him and requested him not to visit Sambhal. "The Sambhal district magistrate also called and told me that the ban on the entry of outsiders had been extended," said Pandey.

The SP took to microblogging site 'X' to post that the state government deployed police at the homes of leaders who were part of the delegation, preventing them from travelling to Sambhal. "The BJP government is hiding the truth of the Sambhal violence. The SP delegation should have been given permission to visit," it said.

"To maintain peace and order, the imposition of Section 163 of the Bharatiya Nagrik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS) has been extended to December 31 in the district," said Sambhal DM Rajendra Pensiya. "No outsider, any social organisation or public representative can enter the borders of the district without seeking the permission of the competent authority till December 10," he added.

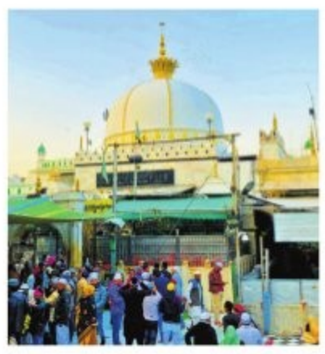
SP's Muzaffarnagar MP Harendra Malik, accompanied by his Kairana counterpart Iqra Hasan and Sambhal MP Zia-ur-Rehman Barq, was stopped from entering the town from Ghaziabad. "I don't understand why we are being stopped. Are the opposition MPs so irresponsible that they can't be allowed to move within the state," Malik asked. In Moradabad, SP MP Ruchi Veera's residence was surrounded by cops to prevent her from travelling to Sambhal.

Tension had been brewing in Sambhal since November 19 when the court-ordered survey of the Mughal-era mosque was carried out following claims that a temple previously stood at the site. Five people were killed in the violence.

Raj Minister says BJP govt will go by court's decision on petition

Row over Hindu temple claim on Ajmer Dargah

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur



A petition which claims that the Ajmer Sharif Dargah was built over a Hindu temple has sparked a political row, with the opposition saying that it is a government's tactic to divert people's attention from pressing issues.

A Hindu outfit's petition in an Ajmer court claimed existence of a Shiva temple inside the dargah of sufi saint Moinuddin Chishti and sought declaration of the shrine as a temple. The court on Wednesday issued notices to the dargah committee, ministry of minority affairs and the ASI.

Former CM and Congress leader Ashok Gehlot accused the BJP of stoking the dargah row for polarisation. He slammed members of the ruling party for sowing discord and creating confusion by approaching the court over the issue. "People from all over the country offer prayers at the Ajmer Dargah... Even all Prime Ministers, including PM Modi, have offered 'chadar' at the Dargah. Yet BJP members are going to court and creating confusion. Where there is unrest, there can't be development." Gehlot said.

Congress MLA Rafeek Khan said the Ajmer dargah row is a blow to the constitutional right of freedom of religion and equality. "The shrine was built in 12th century and it is being challenged in 2024. This is an attempt to disturb communal harmony," he said.

"Instead of looking forward to giving a bright future to the youths and the coming generation, the government is pushing them backward and misleading them because it has nothing to present as its achievement."

BJP state president Madan Rathore said the Congress had treated Muslims as a vote bank. He said decisions in such matters should be taken on the basis of history which shows that Mughals had destroyed many Hindu temples. "Several such buildings were damaged and captured by Mughals, but courts gave judgments after a probe," he said.

Rajasthan minister Jawahar Singh Bedham said the state government will follow whatever decision the court takes on the petition. "Congress has always divided people by doing appeasement politics. Our aim is to preserve cultural identity. Whatever decision the court takes on the petition, the state government will follow it," Bedham said.

BJP set to appoint new Gujarat state president

Following the Maharashtra-Jharkhand elections, the party leadership has shifted its focus to appoint a new state president for Gujarat, with an OBC leader likely being the top choice. Political insiders suggest that the new president will likely come from Saurashtra or North Gujarat. Since taking on the role of Union Minister, current state BJP president CR Patil has faced challenges in managing his responsibilities in both Delhi and Gujarat. He has indicated that he plans to step down as the state chief and will appoint a successor after the Vav assembly by-election.

Gujarat BJP chief hints at stepping down

Speculation is growing about potential change in leadership for Gujarat after state BJP president CR Patil hinted at stepping down at a recent event in Surat. "I have been suggesting that someone else should take on the responsibility. We have been instructed to form a new organisation. I congratulate those who will get this opportunity and thank everyone who worked with me." Many believe that Patil will be replaced. However, the official election for the new chief is expected to take place in January. Additionally, there are discussions about prominent leaders who defected from Congress being given key roles in the party's restructured leadership.

BJP in spot over worker's link to Ponzi scam

Bhupendrasinh Jhala, a BJP worker and founder of BZ Solutions, has been implicated in a massive Rs 6,000 crore Ponzi scam, causing significant embarrassment for the party. The controversy emerged during the inauguration of the BZ Global Education Campus, a joint venture with Gromor Education Campus, where several prominent BJP leaders were present. The situation worsened when a video surfaced on social media featuring Dhawal Jhala, an independent MLA from Bayad and a BJP supporter, who openly praised Bhupendrasinh Jhala. As local body elections in Gujarat draw near, this controversy has put BJP under increasing pressure.

Trucks allowed on 'The Ridge' triggers uproar

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

CONTROVERSIES do not seem to end for the Sukhvinder Singh Sukhu-led Congress government in Himachal Pradesh, as loaded trucks have recently seen on the 110-year-old 'The Ridge' in Shimla, a zone where vehicles are prohibited. This prompted the former deputy mayor to file a complaint with the police.

Locals were left fuming after a video went viral on social media in which two loaded trucks, parked right next to the historic church in Shimla on 'The Ridge' could be seen.

Former deputy mayor of Shimla Municipal Corporation and CPM leader Tikender Singh Panwar has filed a police complaint demanding action against the vehicle owners and officials for allowing vehicles and installation of temporary stalls at 'The Ridge'. Panwar on Saturday called for the registration of an FIR.

The Ridge is located in the heart of Shimla and houses Christ Church, a neo-Gothic structure built in 1844 and a Tudorbethan-styled library building constructed in 1910, besides statues of Mahatma Gandhi, Indira Gandhi, Atal Bihari Vajpayee and Y S Parmar, the first chief minister of Himachal Pradesh.

Bangla national, former BNP leader arrested from Kolkata with fake docus

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @ Kolkata

A former Bangladesh Nationalist Party (BNP) leader was arrested in Kolkata for allegedly living in the city using forged identity documents for the past two years.

Following a tip-off, a team from Park Street police station raided a hotel in Marquis Street on Friday night and nabbed the man who identified himself as Rabi Sharma, officials said.

In a bid to prove his identity, the man produced a photocopy of what he claimed was his Aadhaar card and a passport. "Even after that, we felt something was amiss and questioned him further," a senior police official said.

After interrogation, he revealed that his original name was Salim Matabbar and that he was from Madarihat in Bangladesh, the official said.

Salim claimed that he was a local BNP leader and fled from Bangladesh two years ago following a political dispute with the then ruling party Awami League and arrived in Kolkata, according to police.

After fabricating a fake identity and procuring false documents for the same, he managed to get a passport. After arriving in Kolkata, he had been working at a hotel on Marquis Street, officials said. Police are investigating to find out how Salim entered India and the people who helped him get the forged documents.

The development comes at a time when ties between India and Bangladesh has been rocky over targeted attacks against Hindus and temples since the fall of the Sheikh Hasina-led Awami League government.

The arrest of Hindu monk Chinmoy Krishna Das on charges of treason has triggering protests by the minority community across Bangladesh. Kolkata has also seen protests outside the Bangladesh Deputy High Commission.

Nitish, RJD spar over Bihar development

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

CREDIT war between the ruling JD(U) and the Opposition RJD has escalated as CM Nitish Kumar on Saturday said that no development initiative was taken when Lalu Prasad's party was in power in the state. Bihar will go to polls next year.

"Whatever development has taken place in Bihar, it has taken place during my rule. No development work had taken place earlier," Nitish said.

Nitish inaugurated "Agro Bihar 2024" (an agricultural mechanisation fair) and asserted that his government had taken a slew of measures in the interest of farmers. He alleged that no initiative was taken for the betterment of farmers when the RJD was in power.

Reacting sharply to Nitish's statement, RJD spokesperson Chitranjan Gagan asked the CM to list the initiatives he had taken for the welfare of farmers during his 19 years of rule. He alleged that Nitish was earlier repeating himself that no work was done earlier.

The sparring match between two parties started after Nitish snapped ties with RJD and formed a new government with BJP in January this year. RJD's Tejashwi Yadav said he made a "tired CM" to work when the grand-alliance was in power.

Sita Soren skips BJP review meet, JMM says party door open for her

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

THE absence of former BJP MLA Sita Soren, who was previously with the JMM, during the party's review meeting regarding its electoral defeat in Jharkhand, has raised speculations. This comes at a time when the JMM is trying to reconcile with disgruntled leaders who left before the elections.

Recently, in response to a question raised by a media person, a JMM spokesperson stated that the party would welcome Champai Soren if he returned.

In order to review the reasons behind its defeat in the recent Assembly elections, state BJP president Babulal Marandi called a meeting of its candidates who lost the elections on Saturday. Except for Sita Soren, all other candidates who lost elections were present. When asked about the reasons for her absence, Soren simply termed the meeting "unimportant".

"I did not find the meeting crucial as it is just a formality to call such meetings, but nothing productive comes out of it," she said, adding that she was out of the station. Soren, however, said that she is waiting for central leadership's directions and will act accordingly.

On JMM's plan to reconcile with its disgruntled leaders, Sita Soren refused to comment, dubbing it their "internal matter". Meanwhile, the party sources informed us that JMM will launch an all-out campaign to get its leaders back, who have left the party ahead of the polls for various reasons. The list also includes former chief minister Champai Soren and former JMM MLA Sita Soren.

Champai Soren, who is currently an MLA from Saraikela, is also a founding member of JMM. He is also essential for JMM, as the ruling alliance has faced defeat only on one seat of the 28 reserved for the tribals.

JMM general secretary and party spokesperson Supriyo Bhattacharya already created a sensation by giving a statement that if "Champai dada" wants to come, the party's door will be open for him.

RAJNATH TO GET FINAL THEATRE COMMAND FILE SOON

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

FINAL recommendations to reorganise the country's war structure and the armed forces into integrated theatre commands (ITC) will reach Defence Minister Rajnath Singh's desk after Navy Day, which falls on on December 4.

All three service chiefs and the Chief of Defence Staff will meet after Navy Day to give the final go-ahead to the ITC proposal, a source said.

It will subsequently be forwarded to the Cabinet Committee on Security, the apex decision making body on national security. The proposal has 198 initiatives to achieve restructuring, which will be a long-drawn process as a lot of changes on the ground will have to be initiated, the source added.

The defence of the country will be looked after by three ITC with the concept of 'One Border One Force'.

The structure of is being reorganised into theatres so as to have assets of all three forces under one commander, who will be responsible for all operations under his theatre.

The Maritime Theatre Command, based out of Karwar in Karnataka, would handle coastal and maritime operations. The Western Integrated Theatre Command will be responsible for defence and security bordering Pakistan.

The Northern Integrated Theatre Command will have the entire northern border with China under its area of responsibility with headquarters in Lucknow.

Army Chief General Upendra Dwivedi at an event said that the army's vision for 2047 is to "transform into a modern, agile, adaptive, technology enabled and self-reliant future ready force, capable to deter and win wars in a multi-doman operational environment, across the full spectrum of operations."

Nod to 15K houses under Central scheme for surrendered Maoists

RAIPUR: The ruling BJP in Chhattisgarh has extended the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana-Gramin (PMAY-G) scheme to include surrendered Maoists and victims of violence in Left-Wing Extremism affected areas. This move, part of the state's rehabilitation policy, aims to integrate these individuals into mainstream society while providing them with much-needed housing and security. The proposal, which was first approved by the Centre, will see the construction of 15,000 houses under the PMAY-G scheme. CM Vishnu Deo Sai described it as a significant step towards rehabilitating surrendered Maoists and victims of violence in conflict-ridden regions. "The initiative will be a major step to let the surrendered Maoists living in the LWE affected areas and such families who are victims of violence join the mainstream. The 15,000 units to be built under the PMAY-G are not just houses but a symbol of dignity and security for them.

Bank accounts of 17 ISKCON members were frozen for a month, including that of jailed Chinmoy Das, on orders of the Bangladesh Financial Intelligence Unit

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

AMID mounting tensions between India and Bangladesh following continuing atrocities against the minorities there, some educational institutions in Bangladesh painted the Indian Tricolour on the floor and urged students to walk over them, sources said. The emblem of ISKCON (International Society for Krishna Consciousness) was also desecrated.

"A few educational institutions in Bangladesh saw the desecration of the Indian Tricolour — which was painted on the floor and students were urged to walk over them," Professor Nazmul Ahsan Kalimullah told this newspaper. The offending institutions included the Bogura Poly Technique Institute, Bangladesh University of Engineering and Technology, Dhaka University (Ganit Bhavan) and Noakhali Science and Technology University.

Meanwhile, two more members of ISKCON, Adinath Prabhu and Ranganath Das, were arrested as they were carrying food for the jailed Chinmoy Das, the Kundaldham Monastery said. China, Russia, Pakistan forming an axis: Tewari

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

AT the 8th edition of the Military Literature Festival in Chandigarh, Congress MP Manish Tewari said on Saturday the axis of Russia-China-North Korea-Iran has jeopardised the order put out under the Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons Treaty (NPT) mechanism, posing a threat to international peace and stability.

In the backdrop of geo-political developments with Russian-Ukraine and Israel-Hamas wars, India is on its own, said Tewari, adding a calibrated approach needed to wade through the changing global security situation.

The MP was speaking at a discussion on 'Implications for India vis-a-vis the West in backdrop of Axis of Russia-China-North Korea-Iran pivot of geography.' The session was moderated by Maj Gen (Retd) Mandeep Singh.

"We as a nation need to evolve a comprehensive security doctrine to negotiate this situation and tide above efforts to constrain us globally where on one side China and Russia are both getting closer to Pakistan," Tewari said.

"Our security and energy needs make us dependent on Russia while we need to be cognisant of the fact that Russia is not putting all its eggs in one basket (India) and is hedging its bet by trying to forge a relationship with Pakistan, our immediate and persistent security threat."

Meanwhile, experts at the festival said that the Constitution and legal framework is well-equipped to tackle security challenges.

Israeli strike kills three workers of US charity World Central Kitchen

JERUSALEM

US charity World Central Kitchen (WCK) said on Saturday it was "pausing operations in Gaza at this time" after an Israeli air strike hit a vehicle, killing three of its workers.

The Israeli military confirmed that a Palestinian employee of WCK was killed in a strike, accusing the worker of being a "terrorist" who "infiltrated Israel and took part in the murderous October 7 massacre" last year.

WCK in a statement said it "had no knowledge that any individual in the vehicle had alleged ties to the October 7 Hamas attack", and did not confirm any deaths. Earlier Saturday, Gaza civil defence agency spokesman Mahmud Bassal told AFP that five people were killed, including "three employees of World Central Kitchen", in the strike in the main southern city of Khan Yunis.

"All three men worked for WCK and they were hit while driving in a WCK jeep in Khan Yunis," Bassal said, adding that the vehicle had been "marked with its logo clearly visible".

WCK confirmed a strike had hit its workers, but added: "At this time, we are working with incomplete information and are urgently seeking more details."

The Israeli army statement said representatives from the unit responsible for overseeing humanitarian needs in Gaza had "demanded senior officials from the international community and the WCK administration to clarify the issue and order an urgent examination regarding the hiring of workers who took part in the October 7 massacre".

In April, an Israeli strike killed seven WCK staff. Israel said it had been targeting a "Hamas gunman" in that strike, but the military admitted a series of "grave mistakes" and violations of its own rules of engagement. AFP

Russia bombs Aleppo as rebels take control

Most areas now in Opposition hands; city comes under Russian aerial attacks for first time since 2016

BEIRUT

A monitor of Syria's war said on Saturday that rebels controlled most of Aleppo city, reporting Russian air strikes on parts of Syria's second city for the first time since 2016.

Syria's army admitted that rebels had entered "large parts" of Aleppo and said "dozens of men from our armed forces were killed and others wounded".

The fighters have pressed a lightning offensive against forces of the Iranian- and Russian-backed Syrian government since Wednesday, the same day a fragile ceasefire took effect in neighbouring Lebanon between Israel and the Iran-backed Hezbollah group, a Damascus ally, after two months of all-out war.

"Hayat Tahrir al-Sham (HTS) and allied factions... took control of most of the city and government centres and prisons," said the Britain-based Syrian Observatory for Human Rights. HTS, a jihadist alliance led by Al-Qaeda's former Syria branch, controls swathes of the Idlib region in Syria's northwest, as well as parts of neighbouring Aleppo, Hama and Latakia provinces. Allied Turkish-backed rebel factions have also been taking part in the offensive.

Vehicles burn after an airstrike against opposition fighters in Aleppo | AFP

Overnight, Russian "warplanes launched raids on areas of Aleppo city for the first time since 2016", added the Observatory which relies on a network of sources inside Syria.

AFPTV images showed fires burning in part of the city after the air strikes. Streets were largely deserted but AFP images showed rebels outside a Syrian Telecom building and the landmark citadel. An opposition flag hung from a traffic light. Some rebels prayed in the city centre and fired celebratory gunfire, later patrolling on foot in central Aleppo, images showed. Other fighters were seen posing with a rebel flag outside a police building bearing a large poster of Assad, and standing below a partially-burning billboard of the president.

Syria's army said "armed terrorist organisations" — a term it also uses to refer to opposition groups — launched "a broad attack from multiple axes on the Aleppo and Idlib fronts" and reported fierce battles "over a strip exceeding 100 kilometres". AFP

SYRIA BACK IN SPOTLIGHT

The civil war in Syria has roared back into prominence with a surprise rebel offensive on Aleppo, one of Syria's largest cities and an ancient business hub

THE FORCE THAT STORMED ALEPPO
The US and UN have long designated the opposition force leading the attack at Aleppo — Hayat Tahrir al-Sham, known by its initials HTS — as a terrorist organisation

PROSPECTS FOR WIDER CONFLICT
Fighting in Aleppo could become more broadly destabilising if it drew Russia and Turkey — each with its own interests to protect in Syria — into direct heavy fighting against each other

A CITY THAT CHANGED HANDS

2012: Rebels seize the east side of the city

2016: Government forces backed by Russian airstrikes laid siege to the city. Starving and under siege, rebels surrendered Aleppo that year

2024: Rebels again enter the city after a surprise offensive

THIRTEEN YEARS OF WAR

30% of the country not under Assad is controlled by a range of opposition forces and foreign troops

6.8 million Syrians have fled the country, a refugee flow that helped change the political map in Europe by fueling anti-immigrant far-right movements

900 US troops stationed in northeast Syria, far from Aleppo, to guard against resurgence by the Islamic State

17 TERRORISTS KILLED IN STRIKES IN NORTHWEST PAK

Peshawar: Seventeen terrorists were killed on Friday in two separate operations when Pakistani security forces' helicopter gunships targeted their hideouts in the country's restive Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province. The intelligence-based operations were conducted in the Bannu and the North Waziristan districts, according to security sources.

Zelenskyy offers to end 'hot war' if Kyiv-held lands get NATO protection

KYIV

UKRAINIAN President Volodymyr Zelenskyy called on Friday for NATO to offer guaranteed protections to parts of Ukraine controlled by Kyiv in order to "stop the hot stage of the war."

Zelenskyy also implied he would be willing to wait to regain the almost one-fifth of his country that Russia's army has seized, if such a deal could offer security for the rest of Ukraine and end the fighting. The comments came amidst escalating tensions in the near three-year war.

Volodymyr Zelenskyy

Russia has this week threatened to strike government buildings in Kyiv and launched a massive aerial attack on Ukraine's energy sector — something it called a response to Ukraine firing US and British supplied missiles on Russian territory. "If we want to stop the hot stage of the war, we should take under NATO umbrella the territory of Ukraine that we have under our control," Zelenskyy told Britain's Sky News, according to a voiceover translation of his remarks from Ukrainian into English.

"That's what we need to do fast, and then Ukraine can get back the other part of its territory diplomatically," he added. Talk of a possible ceasefire or peace deal has ratched up since Donald Trump won the US presidential election earlier this month. The Republican has criticised US aid to Kyiv and claimed he could halt the conflict within hours, without saying how. Russia controls around 18% of Ukraine's internationally recognised territory.

FIRST TRIP

China cross as Taiwan prez set to visit US

TAOYUAN

TAIWAN'S president departed Saturday for his trip to the South Pacific that will include a two-day transit in the US, his first since assuming office, though few details about his itinerary were made public.

The planned stopovers in Hawaii and the territory of Guam have already drawn fierce criticism from Bejing, which claims Taiwan as its own territory and objects to official exchanges between it and the US, the island's biggest backer and military provider.

Lai Ching-te will go on a weeklong trip to visit the Marshall Islands, Tuvalu and Palau — three diplomatic allies of the self-governed island in the Pacific. "I want to use the values of democracy, peace, and prosperity to continue to expand our cooperation with our allies, to deepen our partnership and let the world see Taiwan not just as a model of democracy, but a vital power in promoting the world's peace and stability, and prosperous development," he said at the Taoyuan International Airport, ahead of his departure.

Lai Ching-te

Though Taiwan retains strong contacts with dozens of other nations, it has only 12 formal diplomatic allies. The self-ruled democracy has recently been facing increasing pressure from China.

It is unclear whether Lai will meet with any members of the incoming US administration during his transit. AP

Amazon India mulls foraying into the quick commerce space early next year with Tez, and a separate team is working on the project currently to understand its feasibility

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

A few years ago, when the concept of quick commerce, a business model where goods are delivered within 10 minutes to 1 hour, started gaining traction, venture capitalists and even a few start-up founders raised questions on the model and wondered whether it is scalable, and do customers really require 10 minutes delivery. But in 2024, all major ecommerce companies are betting big on quick commerce as customers' preferences have changed over years.

Not just groceries, major q-commerce players such as Blinkit and Zepto have extended their services in many categories and have introduced new features. From LEGO sets to sports, gym equipment, yoga needs and travel bags, Zomato-backed Blinkit delivers everything in 10 minutes. Now, Amazon India mulls foraying into the quick commerce space early next year with Tez.

Swiggy shares got listed on the exchanges on November 13 at around ₹420. Swiggy said in its draft offer documents filed with SEBI that the assortment of non-grocery items available on Instamart has been growing.

The category contribution to the assortment has increased from 18.20% in FY22 to 25.28% in June quarter of this year. This shows non-grocery items' growth and popularity among users.

Also, for FMCG companies, q-commerce emerges as a fastest growing channel. Nestle India recently said that q-commerce is 50% of its e-commerce business and that it is the fastest channel of growth. Tata Consumer saw its festive sales increase through q-commerce.

According to a Nielsen IQ Shopper Trends 2024 Report, 31% of Indian shoppers now rely on quick commerce for their main grocery needs, while 39% use it for top-up purchases. Among the popular categories, 42% of shoppers use quick commerce for Ready-to-Eat meals, and 45% for Salty Snacks.

"Like any other sector, FMCG companies are also experiencing significant benefits from the rise of q-commerce, focusing heavily on ultra-fast deliveries. This shift is being driven by changing consumer expectations and the need for speed in delivery, leading to substantial growth in e-commerce sales," says Somdutta Singh, angel investor, Founder and CEO of Assiduus.

She adds that quick commerce enables FMCG brands to penetrate urban micro-markets. For instance, by utilizing local warehouses or dark stores, companies can ensure faster deliveries and better serve densely populated areas.

"This strategy not only improves service speed but also allows brands to access new customer bases that value quick service. The immediacy of q-commerce encourages impulse purchases, as consumers are more likely to buy items on a whim when they know they can receive them almost instantly," she says.

"This can significantly boost average order values, particularly in categories like snacks and personal care products. Also, quick commerce allows FMCG companies to reduce reliance on traditional retail channels, streamlining their supply chains and potentially increasing profit margins by eliminating intermediaries," she explains.

Expansion of dark stores

A strong network of dark stores (which is a retail distribution centre for online orders) is essential for quick commerce players, especially to increase its market share. Quick commerce companies are raising money to invest in dark stores. In just six months, Zepto announced three fundraising rounds and in the latest round, it raised $350 million.

Quick commerce logistics enabler Blitz recently raised ₹40 crore in Series A funding led by IvyCap Ventures to enhance its 60-minute delivery infrastructure and expand its dark store network across the country's top 20 cities.

Yash Sharma, Co-founder of Blitz told TNIE that Blitz is committed to empowering marketplaces and brands with 60-minute delivery capabilities, setting the stage for 10x growth in FY25. "Quick commerce in India is currently a $3 billion market, representing just 5% of the total e-commerce space. Having grown 3x in the past two years, it is projected to become a $30 billion industry within five years," he said.

Talking about various challenges, he said many brands lack the infrastructure to enable quick commerce on their platforms, resulting in lost sales.

Nearly 30% of customers abandon carts due to slow delivery timelines, highlighting a critical gap.

Vikram Gupta, Founder and Managing Partner, IvyCap Ventures, pointed out that they are seeing opportunities in this space as the market is expected to grow significantly reaching an estimated $5.5 billion by 2025, according to industry reports.

"While the growth prospects are promising, the sector faces challenges such as optimizing unit economics, building efficient last-mile infrastructure, and managing operational sustainability at scale. Addressing these challenges requires a combination of technology, innovation, and disciplined execution," he said.

Delivery charges, a concern

Since quick deliveries require a significant logistics network that also include dark stores and delivery personnel, delivery charges are varying now across platforms depending on the order value.

"For orders valued at less than ₹ 50, delivery fees often range from ₹10 to ₹50, depending on the platform and location. This pricing structure poses a challenge for both consumers and companies. Naturally, high delivery fees on low-value orders can deter customers from making purchases, thereby impacting sales volume," said Somdutta Singh.

Yash Sharma of Blitz said consumers are increasingly valuing the convenience of quick commerce, with 70% of escalations today related to urgent delivery requests. Blitz charges ₹75 per order, 20% higher than standard same-day or next-day deliveries. "This reflects the slight premium which consumers are willing to pay for faster fulfilment," he said.

COP29 IN BAKU: OIL AND MONEY STAIN CLIMATE TALKS

GURBIR SINGH

IT is indeed ironical the UN Climate Conference, also known as the Conference of Parties (COP), chooses to hold their jamborees in capitals that are the hub of fossil fuel interests. The World, desperately fighting Climate Change and global warming, held its 200-nation gathering in December 2023 in Dubai; and now COP29 has just concluded in Baku, Azerbaijan – the oldest oil exploration town existing since 1840!

The President of Azerbaijan, Ilham Aliyev, opened COP29 on 11 November, embarrassingly referring to the country's oil wealth as "the gift of God" to his people. What could he say? Oil represents 90% of Azerbaijan's exports.

It was billed as a 'finance conference'. The focus of the summit this year was to get the developed world to agree to a new target of funding pegged at $1.3 trillion a year. It was to help the poorer nations to move away from fossil fuels and to repair the climate change havoc wrought on communities around the world.

There's been a history of skirmishing between the rich and poor nations on who will pay for the environmental damage. With much back-and-forth, a deal was finally reached in 2009 at the Climate Conference in Copenhagen when the rich nations agreed to raise $100 billion by 2020.

Expectedly, the developed world reneged from its commitments, and it was only in 2022 that the target was met when funding touched $106 billion. Much of this was disguised low-interest loans, something the poor nations had not bargained for.

Poor compromise

The Baku conference seemed doomed from the start. The demand for $1.3 trillion a year by the Global South was met with derision by the rich nations. At one point, representatives for the Alliance of Small Island States (AOSIS) walked out of the summit, after dismissing an offer of $250bn from richer countries.

It seemed the climate catastrophe was not registering. Tuvalu, a small south Pacific island nation, was facing submergence with rising tides, but who cares?

In this melee of spats and protests, by 24 November, when the conference was supposed to close, there was no agreement. The differences were so sharp that Mukhtar Babayev, the Azerbaijan environment minister, also president of the Conference, had two speeches in hand when he walked up for his closing remarks. But the rich nations, with a push from China and India, finally delivered. The gavel came down with the adoption of the rich nations' proposal to raise $300 billion a year by 2035.

It was a bitter compromise for the poor nations. Most environmental groups said it would have been better not to have any deal at all; but a deal is always better than no deal, as it let's one build on it.

SOURAV ROY

India and China

India led the developing countries at COP29, and continued to reiterate the demand for raising funding to $1.3 trillion a year. When the gavel came down on $300 billion, India's delegate Chandni Raina, in a fierce speech called the deal "paltry" and "nothing more than an optical illusion", and unable to "address the enormity of the challenge we all face."

However, as the world's third biggest emitter and fifth biggest economy, India has been caught in a cleft between advocating renewable energy and continuing a legacy of electricity generation that relies heavily on coal power plants.

India generates 80% of its electricity from coal-fired plants, and it is rising. In January 2024, coal-fired electricity generation in India reached a record high of 115 terawatt hours (TWh), a 10% increase from the same month in 2023.

This was reflected in India's ambivalence at COP29 – fierce public opposition to the final deal, but not pressing too many objections in the intervening days at the conference. India was keen for a deal as climate finance could bolster its transition to a cleaner economy. In the process, though it slammed the "paltry" $300 billion, it did not veto the deal; and left itself enough elbow room to deliver a censure.

As climate action shifts to Belem, Brazil for COP30, the climate clock has been sent into reverse gear with the rejection of the clause on "transitioning away from fossil fuels" in the final communique at Baku. The adoption of the clause was a major achievement at Dubai's COP28 last year; but Saudi Arabia and other oil producers seemed to have the last laugh at Baku.

This comes at a time when the Donald Trump administration is about to take guard. Trump, in his last round as President, had made no bones about exiting the Paris Climate talks.

While we wait to see whether the new US President will make good his threat, there is already a vacuum in the Climate Change leadership; and one can see China gearing up to fill the space. China is now the world's largest emitter of greenhouse gases and the second-largest economy. It also sees a market opportunity in providing green technology, including solar panels, wind turbines, batteries and EVs.

Finally, if the target for funding the rollback of Climate Change has to be reached, who and how contributes the money will have to be redefined. For instance, why should nations like Saudi Arabia and China not be included among the developed nations who have benefitted from fossil fuels? Similarly, corporations, who continue to make a killing on selling dirty fuel and technology, must also be severely taxed.

Cash transfer plans for women to cost ₹1 L crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE direct cash transfer schemes for women announced by nine state governments would burden the exchequer with more than ₹1 lakh crore in 2024-25, according to a report by PRS Legislative Research. These schemes would account for a substantial portion of the states' total receipts.

As per the PRS report, Karnataka government would have to spend 11% of its revenue receipts on the scheme while Maharashtra government would need to spend 9% of its revenue receipt on a similar scheme. While nine states – Assam, Chhattisgarh, Karnataka, Maharashtra, MP, Odisha Tamil Nadu and West Bengal – already have rolled out cash transfer schemes for women, Jharkhand has also introduced a similar scheme and Himachal Pradesh is in the process of rolling out one. "Additionally, such schemes are part of poll promises of current governments in Punjab, Haryana, and Telangana," says the report by PRS Legislative Research. These schemes primarily target women belonging to lower income households, excluding those women who are government employees, income tax payees, and professionals.

Claim rejections have come down to 25% till Nov: EPFO

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

THE Employee Provident Fund Organisation (EPFO) has reduced the rejection of claims to 25% till November 2024, the organisation informed the Central Board of Trustees (CBT) in its meeting on Saturday in New Delhi.

"As of 26 November 2024, the combined rejection and return ratio was 21.59%. This includes 13.77% inadmissible claims, and returns (deficiency in claims) stood at 7.82%. The final withdrawal claims reflect 11.92% rejections and 13.44% return cases," the EPFO recently said in a post on social media platform X.

In 2022-23, the combined rejection and return ratio was 34%, while in the year before, the claim rejections had touched 35%. Claims are rejected when the claimant is not eligible for the type of advance or withdrawal. Claims are returned if there is any deficiency. Returned claims can be resubmitted after corrections.

The Board appreciated the fact that rejection ratio (excluding returns) has come down to 14% in November 2024. During the 2023-24, EPFO settled 4.45 crore claims for an amount of ₹1.82 lakh crore. In the current financial year, 3.83 crore claims have already been settled for more than ₹1.57 lakh crore, the CBT was informed.

In FY25, 1.15 crore claims have been settled in auto mode, whereby requests for withdrawals for education, marriage and medical purposes are settled automatically. The limit for auto claims settlement facility has also been extended to ₹1 lakh from ₹50,000, which has also been extended to advances for housing, marriage and education.

F1: Piastri wins Qatar GP sprint race

Oscar Piastri won the Qatar Grand Prix sprint race on Saturday, with McLaren teammate Lando Norris finishing second in a valuable one-two for the British constructor. Norris led from pole but allowed Australian Piastri to go past him to take the chequered flag. Mercedes' George Russell completed the podium.

PCB wants long-term solution as chances of hybrid model for CT increase

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

AMID the ongoing impasse on the 2025 Champions Trophy, Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) chief Mohsin Naqvi spoke to a few reporters after an U19 Asia Cup match between India and Pakistan in Dubai on Saturday. Once again, Naqvi, who is also a federal minister for interior in Pakistan, said the new formula to resolve the issue will definitely not be a hybrid model and it be based on equal terms.

The International Cricket Board executive board met briefly on Friday to finalise the schedule of the Champions Trophy with Naqvi attending the meeting in person. BCCI secretary Jay Shah attended the meeting online. It is learnt that both boards — BCCI and PCB — have been asked by the ICC executive board to discuss the issue between themselves and come up with a solution.

"It was brief meeting and lasted for around 10 to 15 minutes only. The BCCI and PCB were asked to discuss things and apprise the formula agreeable to both in the next 24 to 48 hours. Once they convey their decisions, the ICC board will meet again to finalise the schedule of the tournament," an ICC board member, who attended the meeting, told this daily. The tournament is slated for February-March next year.

Going by Naqvi's latest statement in the media, it appears the PCB is insisting for a long-term solution to the problem. "We have given our point of view on some issues and our Indian counterpart have done the same. We will do things which are in the best of interest of cricket. Definitely not the hybrid formula but any new formula will be devised on equal terms," Naqvi told reporters.

Explaining Pakistan's unrelenting stand he said, "This situation arises all the time. This one-sided thing that we travel to India and they refuse coming to our country cannot continue. At the moment, we are talking to settle it once for all. I promise, whatever will happen will happen on equal terms."

Naqvi also hinted that the formula will be implemented for long term including future ICC events in India. "Whatever it will, it would be for long term not only for the Champions Trophy only. Things will be decided for the upcoming tournaments as well," he said. It should be noted that India are scheduled to host three ICC men's tournaments — the 2026 T20 World Cup jointly with Sri Lanka, the 2029 Champions Trophy and the 2031 ODI World Cup jointly with Bangladesh.

In joint events, Pakistan would not be asked to travel to India but the issue will rise for the 2029 Champions Trophy. India are also hosts of the 2025 women's ODI World Cup. "We want cricket to win. The most important thing for us is pride of our country. It comes first," added Naqvi. These statements by Naqvi definitely point to PCB's intention to get a formula implemented for long term. If accepted, this will mean Pakistan will no longer play their matches during ICC tournaments in India at least till 2031.

PCB chairman also met Emirates Cricket Board secretary Mubashshir Usmani in Dubai fuelling speculations over the board's acceptance of the hybrid model. However, a PCB statement said Naqvi told Usmani that Pakistan was ready to host the Champions Trophy and all preparations regarding it are on schedule.

Shah to join ICC in a few days

Meanwhile, it is learnt that BCCI secretary, who was set to join as ICC chair on Sunday, will assume the post a few days later. "He is not joining tomorrow (Sunday). May be on December 3 or 5. The date has not been finalised yet," a source told this daily. It is Sunday on December 1 and it is a public holiday in Dubai on December 2.

DAMAGE CONTROL BY GUKESH FOR DRAW

After wobble in middle period, Indian GM maintains calm to save Game 5 with white pieces against Liren

THE press conference remains an important tool not only to gauge what the players feel. It remains the only place to know what the players are happy to talk about.

By this measure alone, the five-game old World Championship tussle between D Gukesh and Ding Liren is already fascinating. While Gukesh keeps his cards close to his chest, the world champion is more open and willing to be honest.

One admission from the Chinese 32-year-old even brought out a subtle change of expression from the Indian. When it was put to the former that he did have an advantage in the fifth game of the Championship, he was frank in admitting '... I didn't realise I had some advantage, something to improve in the next round'.

That was the theme on Saturday, when Gukesh, with white pieces, made the opening move. All the definitive action, leading up to Saturday evening, had come when he had White so anticipation was bubbling a good few hours ahead of the game.

It kind of reached a very polite fever pitch — some hooting, some clapping and a lot of shouting for Gukesh — as soon as the 18-year-old walked past the waiting fans and inside the players' lounge, shortly before 5.00 PM local time (2.30 PM IST). Roughly two hours into the contest, the Indian, aiming to become the youngest world champion in history, would have liked to wind the clock back to 5.00 PM. He had made an inaccuracy in the middle game — his first in a couple of games — and he suddenly faced an uphill battle to save the game.

Rather than opting to capture Black's e5 bishop with his rook, he had made the mistake of removing it with his pawn. The evaluation bar, which had more or less been dead centre for the first two hours, suddenly gave Black a slight advantage. Leela Zero, an AI model putting out predictions for the world body (FIDE), also reacted wildly as it now pegged Liren's winning chances at 36%. On commentary for chess24, Judit Polgar was less than impressed with the Indian's move. There was now a line that Liren could use to put a lot of pressure.

As soon as Liren found the best response to that inaccuracy (knight to d3), one could sense an annoyance from the opposite end of the table, something the 18-year-old admitted after the game. He knew he had made a mistake. Now, it was time to batten down the hatches and bring home the draw.

He showed those fighting qualities to make the game secure from a defensive perspective. One more inaccuracy from him would have meant a repeat of game one. He played engine-recommended moves to bring the eval bar back towards the centre. In the process, he also showed he had learned from the first game. He stopped pushing for the win after recognising the game stage.

What also helped him was Ding settling for the draw as he didn't realise the advantage he had. "I didn't see the idea with 28...Rc8, I was thinking of moving the king to the kingside, like some kind of Berlin pawn structure. I didn't realize that it was a big advantage for me," he said during the post-game press conference. Gukesh, 14 years his junior, did use the word 'blunder' twice but said he knew the draw was the logical endgame as soon as the opposition played Bc6 and not Be6.

"Towards the end of the game, I was very worried about my position after the manoeuvre 27...Be6 followed by 28...Rc8. I was quite relieved when my opponent played 27...Bc6, as I thought it would be a draw," the 18-year-old said.

Apart from Gukesh's capacity to problem solve, the game also saw him doing something different in the Opening. According to FIDE, this was the first time that he had played the exchange variation of the French Defence in a Classical over-the-board game (the queens and a pair of rooks were gone by the 13th move).

Maurice Ashley, the only African-American Grandmaster till date

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Singapore

THERE have been a lot of unique players throughout chess' rich history. Nobody, though, has a legacy quite like Maurice Ashley, who's in the city-state as the MC for the World Championship. The first (and, so far, only) African-American GM. While he's aware of that legacy, he wants a world 'where we never have to talk about it in a few years'.

It's why the 58-year-old, who earned the GM title in 2000, has started a fellowship in the US (Maurice Ashley Chess Fellowship), aimed at giving an under-represented community a chance in the upper echelons of the game. "I think about it a lot," he told this daily. "I just started a fellowship in the US because I remain the only black chess player (GM) in the US. Things are about to change as a protege of mine (Brewington Hardaway) is about to get the GM title but there should be many more." "I'm also working with Jamaica (the country of Ashley's birth) and I'm also working with children in Africa. For me, it's a legacy project. It's very important to me to see diversity in chess and I shouldn't be the only black face when people think about black chess players. There should be many more. I would just love for that to happen."

Why is this the case? "Confluence of reasons," Ashley, who came to NY as a kid, said. "Socio-economic, cultural... socio-economic not only in terms of being able to afford but also in terms of reward. Chess hasn't really, until recent times, been that lucrative for a smart black kid to chase down. All of it is a combination and also somebody needs to push it along.

"Part of the reason why there haven't been truly great black chess players is because there haven't been truly great black chess players. Take India, for example. Why weren't there any great Indian players? (Viswanathan) Anand shows up and there still aren't any other great chess players for some time. Finally, somehow, the wheel turns and the doors blast open."

How did that moment — the doors blasting open — happen for Ashley? How did this Jamaican-born, New York kid take to a game like chess? The too; didn't read version involves wanting to beat friends. The longer version? "Friends were playing it in high school and they were beating me and I couldn't stand it," he laughed. "There would be hustlers who would beat me and take my lunch money. I started reading a lot of books, started studying chess. Soon, I got good enough and none of them wanted to play me anymore. That was really it. I was serious, I read everything. He was also self aware to know there weren't many who looked like but 'I was obsessed'. "I was aware of the fact because you couldn't be unaware. But, frankly, I was obsessed and there was no stopping (irrespective) of who was what or whether they looked like me. I was obsessed and I still am obsessed. My mind and soul was made for chess and my heart is in chess."

Rohit, Gill miss out on vital practice due to rain

AGENCIES @Canberra

UNRELENTING rain forced the abandonment of the first-day's play of the two-day practice match between India and Prime Minister's XI here on Saturday, robbing Rohit Sharma and Shubman Gill of some much-needed pink ball game time ahead of the day-night second Test against Australia at Adelaide.

The teams have agreed to play a 50-over-a-side match on Sunday at the Manuka Oval, weather permitting. However, the day might have come as a dampener for captain Rohit, who had skipped the first Test at Perth to welcome a baby boy into his family, ahead of the Pink Ball Test, starting from December 6.

Though he has had couple of extensive net sessions with pink ball, facing some quality bowlers in a real-match situation holds a different value, considering India's last day-night Test was against Sri Lanka in March 2022 in Bengaluru.

Hazlewood out of 2nd Test

ADELAIDE: Pacer Josh Hazlewood was on Saturday ruled out of the second Test with a "low grade left side" injury, Cricket Australia announced. Australia are trailing 0-1 in the five-match Border-Gavaskar Trophy after a 295-run shellacking in the first Test at Perth.

"Josh Hazlewood has been ruled out of the match with a low grade left side injury. Hazlewood will remain with the group in Adelaide to prepare for the remainder of the series," the CA said in a media release.

Uncapped pacers Sean Abbott and Brendan Doggett have been added to the Australian squad for the Adelaide Test. "Sean Abbott and Brendan Doggett have been brought into the Australian men's squad for the second NRMA Insurance Test match against India in Adelaide."

Dominant Lakshya one victory away from title

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

THERE'S dearth of Indian singles players capable of mounting a challenge at the highest level in the BWF circuit at the moment. Lakshya Sen is an exception.

He has had his share of struggles and is yet to be a dominating figure on a consistent basis, like some of the greats in the sport, but the Indian is someone who has earned a level of respect from some of the top players in the sport with his ability to manipulate the shuttle.

And his quality has been evident in the ongoing Syed Modi tournament, a Super 300 meet, in Lucknow. With the cream of the sport giving the event a miss, Lakshya has visibly been a level above everyone else. He has won all his matches in straight games to reach the final, where he'll meet Jia Heng Jason Teh of Indonesia.

On Saturday, he made light work of Shogo Ogawa of Japan, World No 68, in the men's singles semifinal. The Indian raced to a 21-8, 21-14 win in just 42 minutes.

And he was visibly happy with his effort and signalled his victory with both his arms raised, acknowledging the home crowd who had stayed behind to watch him play.

With his lightning speed, sharp returns and some deft touches, he was too powerful for his opponent on the day.

Earlier, PV Sindhu had shown that she's still the leading force in women's singles in the country with a dominating victory (21-12, 21-9) over compatriot Unnati Hooda in the semifinal.

Mehtab helps Mumbai beat Hyderabad in ISL

AGENCIES @ Mumbai

MUMBAI City FC defeated Hyderabad FC by 1-0 at the Mumbai Football Arena in the Indian Super League on Saturday.

The Islanders returned to winning ways at home courtesy of a solitary goal from Mehtab Singh as Petr Kratky's men put the preceding defeat against Punjab FC behind by securing their third win of the ongoing season. With his assist, Lallianzuala Chhangte became Mumbai City FC's outright highest goal contributor in ISL (36 — 21 goals and 15 assists), leaving behind Bipin Singh.

The Islanders broke the deadlock in the 29th minute when Mehtab made an exceptional movement to head home a corner delivered by Chhangte. Mehtab lost his marker brilliantly with his intricate movement and came up with a powerful header to beat Jongte in goal.

In the second match of the day, Jason Cummings scored a late goal to help Mohun Bagan beat Chennaiyin FC in Kolkata. With this win, Mohun Bagan climbed to the top spot. Bagan have 20 points, same as second-placed Bengaluru FC, but they have a superior goal difference. For Chennaiyin, this was their fourth loss of the season.

Las Palmas stun Barca on 125th anniversary

AGENCIES @ Barcelona

LAS PALMAS claimed a surprise 2-1 victory at La Liga leaders Barcelona on Saturday, spoiling the hosts' 125th anniversary celebrations.

Sandro Ramirez sent the visitors ahead early in the second half and although Raphinha hammered home an equaliser, Fabio Silva struck to claim three points and take his team up to 14th.

Barcelona still lead champions Real Madrid by four points but Los Blancos, who host Getafe on Sunday, have played two fewer games than Hansi Flick's team.

The Catalans have now gone three league games without a victory, after a run of 11 wins in 12 prior in the top flight.

Barcelona wore white shorts as part of their anniversary celebrations, as they used to back at the start of their history. They held a gala in the city on Friday night to mark the occasion, having been founded on November 29, 1899, but came undone on Saturday afternoon.

The Catalans were able to name teenage starlet Lamine Yamal on the bench after recovering from an ankle problem.

CLIMATE FINANCE CAN YIELD HIGHER RETURNS

- The recent study by researchers at Cornell University's Cornell Atkinson Centre for Sustainability showed developed countries investing $1.3 trillion annually in climate finance for developing nations would see substantial economic returns, with gains projected between $5 trillion and $41 trillion over a 10-year period (2025–2035)
- A public finance contribution of $2.8 trillion by developed countries through 2035 could yield a net economic benefit ranging from $5.1 to $40 trillion, resulting in returns of 180.2% to 1,457.2%

Why is there a trust deficit? Climate finance shadow report 2023 from Oxfam, which assessed the previous $100 billion per year commitment made by developed countries to be delivered from 2020, shows that while donors claim to have mobilised $83.3 billion in 2020, the real value of their spending was $24.5 billion. The $83.3 billion claim is an overestimate because it includes projects where the climate objective has been overstated or loans cited at their face value rather than by the financial effort of the provider or the benefit to the recipient

U.N. CLIMATE SUMMITS TURNING DUBIOUS DEEPEN CRISIS

S V KRISHNA CHAITANYA @Chennai

THE COP29 climate conference, hosted in Baku, concluded with palpable disappointment as developed nations committed to mobilising only $300 billion annually for climate action in developing countries. While this marks an increase from the previous $100 billion pledge, it falls far short of the estimated $1 trillion needed annually to effectively combat climate change. The funding, moreover, will not be available until 2035, leaving immediate needs unmet at a time when climate impacts are accelerating worldwide.

This disappointing outcome exemplifies a larger pattern that has emerged over the past several years with the annual climate summits consistently failing to deliver on their ambitious goals. The gap between these summits' promises and the urgent actions required to meet the targets of the 2015 Paris Agreement has become glaring.

According to the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) emissions gap report released just before the COP29 meet, global emissions reached a record-high 57.1 gigatons of carbon dioxide equivalent ($GtCO_2e$) in 2023, an increase of 1.3% from 2022. To have a realistic chance of achieving the 1.5 degree Celsius target, global emissions must be reduced by 42% by 2030 and 57% by 2035 from 2019 levels. This now looks impossible to achieve. The report said even under the best scenario, full implementation of both unconditional and conditional Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs) would only reduce expected emissions in 2030 by 10%, leading to predictions of up to 2.6 degrees of warming.

This limited progress brings to the fore challenges facing the international community and raises questions about the effectiveness of existing frameworks. The core issues with climate negotiations stem from an imbalance in responsibility and commitment. The United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (UNFCCC), established in 1994, was built on the "polluter pays" principle, acknowledging the disproportionate historical emissions of developed nations. These countries, including the United States and many European nations, were tasked not only with reducing their emissions but also with providing financial and technological support to developing countries.

This framework aimed to address historical inequities, holding developed nations accountable for the bulk of emissions over the past 150 years. Yet, such principles of fairness are seldom the driving force behind international relations. The introduction of the Kyoto Protocol in 1997 marked a significant step in operationalising the UNFCCC by imposing binding emission reduction targets on developed nations. However, the Protocol's impact was diluted when the United States, despite playing a pivotal role in drafting it, refused to ratify the agreement. The Protocol's failure to secure universal commitment signaled the beginning of a gradual weakening of the climate governance framework.

The Copenhagen summit in 2009 was an early attempt to replace the Kyoto Protocol with a new framework that could address the limitations of binding commitments. However, the Copenhagen summit failed to reach a consensus. The 2015 Paris Agreement marked a significant shift by requiring all nations, regardless of development status, to submit self-determined emission reduction targets, known as Nationally Determined Contributions (NDCs). This shift diluted the accountability of developed nations and eliminated the binding targets that had previously been in place.

Under the Paris Agreement, while some progress has been made, the gap between action and necessity remains stark. This dilution of responsibilities has extended to climate finance, an area that has seen considerable tension in recent years. Historically, developed nations were solely responsible for mobilising funds and transferring technology to assist developing countries. Yet, in recent negotiations, pressure has mounted to broaden the contributor base to include emerging economies like China and Saudi Arabia.

Although the Paris Agreement sought to integrate this idea, it did not achieve consensus. In Baku, developed nations pushed for a broader financial responsibility, but developing nations, led by China, resisted, arguing that emerging economies should not be held to the same standards as wealthier nations with a greater historical carbon footprint.

Despite these challenges, the UNFCCC remains the only forum where even the smallest and most vulnerable nations, like Panama and the Marshall Islands, can voice their concerns and seek support. For these nations, climate finance, even if insufficient, is crucial for adaptation and survival.

However, the recurring inadequacies of these meetings cast doubt on the long-term viability of the UNFCCC as a mechanism to drive effective action.

Panama's head of delegation Juan Carlos Monterrey Gómez was extremely vocal during COP29 talks saying, "Why should countries like Panama bear the burden of loans to cover $250 million in losses from torrential rains this past month or $1 billion in lost revenue from the Panama Canal due to droughts? Why should any developing country finance adaptation measures with loans while others profit from our suffering? We are told the $1.3 trillion proposal from developing nations is 'extreme'. But what's truly extreme is spending $2.5 trillion on wars or $7 trillion on fossil fuel subsidies while failing to commit even a fraction of that to save lives," Gomez said responding to the failure of developed countries to provide adequate climate finance in the form of grants.

Earlier this year, about 300 Gunas - indigenous families on Gardi Sugdub, a tiny island off Panama's Caribbean coast had to leave their homes. The Gunas of Gardi Sugdub are the first of 63 communities along Panama's Caribbean and Pacific coasts that government officials and scientists expect to be forced to relocate by rising sea levels in the coming years.

Tina Stege, Marshall Islands Climate Envoy, said: "We came in good faith, with the safety of our communities and the well-being of the world at heart. Yet, we have seen the very worst of political opportunism here at this COP29, playing games with the lives of the world's most vulnerable people. Despite the barriers, we have fought hard and secured something for our communities. We are leaving with a small portion of the funding climate-vulnerable countries urgently need."

Aarti Khosla, director of New-Delhi based think tank Climate Trends, said: "Baku has given a deal but kept no one happy, everyone has stayed in to retain the spirit of multilateralism."

Sunita Narain, director general, Centre for Science and Environment (CSE), said: "At COP29, we lost an opportunity -- without a meaningful agreement on climate finance; both in terms of quantity and quality, large parts of the world that would have had the chance to reinvent growth to make it low-carbon intensive, will not be able to do so. What's worse, this comes at a time when these countries are even more vulnerable due to climate change impacts."

During the closing plenary of COP29, Chandni Raina, adviser to the Department of Economic Affairs and part of India's negotiating team, was the voice of the Global South who termed the $300 billion finance commitment "abysmally poor" and paltry compared to the estimated $1.3 trillion required annually until 2030 for effective climate action.

Meanwhile, a group of prominent global leaders, including former secretary general of the United Nations Ban Ki-moon wrote an open letter calling for urgent reforms to the COP under the UNFCCC. They argue that the current structure of COP meetings is insufficient to meet the 1.5 degree target needed for planetary stability. The proposed reforms include stringent eligibility criteria for COP presidencies to ensure alignment with climate goals, and transforming COP meetings into smaller, more frequent, action-oriented sessions that prioritise progress and solutions. They also called for greater transparency to curb the disproportionate influence of corporate interests, ensuring fair representation from vulnerable communities and scientific institutions.

Experts fear that with insufficient finance flow, countries may submit weak NDCs which are due in February next year.
